Large Used Car Black Market Is Smashed by OPA

Sales Totaled $3,000,000 above Ceilings; 31 Are Indicted

DETROIT, April 19 (AP)—Thirty-one persons were indicted by a federal grand jury as the Office of Price Administration claimed to have smashed a black market in used motor cars, involving sales totaling $3,000,000 above ceiling prices.

The United States district attorney's office said most of the defendants, who live in Michigan, Kentucky, Illinois and Missouri and allegedly operated in five states, were expected to surrender next week.

All were charged with conspiring "feloniously" to violate price regulations in a scheme in which, the OPA said, 5,000 cars were funneled out of Detroit to buyers who paid an average of $600 above ceiling prices.

Joseph C. Murphy, assistant United States attorney, said no additional indictments would be returned in Detroit but that others "probably will be handed down in other sections of the country."

OPA's No. 1 Crackdown

The OPA charged similar illegal operations had been carried on in Washington, D. C.; Indianapolis and Cincinnati. These were not involved in today's indictment.

Of the defenders named today only one was identified as an authorized, or "warranty," dealer.

Their dealings, United States Attorney C. Lehr said, extended into Texas, Arkansas, Mississippi, Tennessee and Louisiana. Fraudulent certificates of transfer were given local ration boards, the indictment said.

The OPA, terming today's crackdown the largest of its kind in the agency's history, said fifteen of its special investigators have been working on the case since September 15, 1945.

The agency credited Charles O. Bannon, assistant chief of the division of special investigation at the Cleveland, O., regional office, with breaking the ring that OPA alleges did $3,000,000 worth of illegal business since November 1, 1944.

Ring Employe "Spotters"

The indictment charged the thirty-one defendants with buying used cars in Detroit above ceiling prices, moving them to Cairo, Ill., and Murray, Ky., and disposing of them, again above ceiling, at fake auctions to dealers from southern states.

The maximum penalty upon conviction is two years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine for each of the defendants, according to the United States attorney's office.

The ring employed "spotters," the agency said, who hailed motorists on streets to buy their cars. It labelled "most brazen" the case of a defendant alleged to have followed a motorist into church and arranged during services to buy his car.

Virginia Mine Blast Is Probed by Inspectors

MCCOY, Va., April 19 (AP)—Federal and state mine inspectors sat down tonight with the management of the Great Valley anthracite mine to assess the findings of a day spent in examining the deep level shaft where twelve men died in an explosion yesterday.

The examining body, headed by A. U. Miller, Mount Hope, W. Va., United States mine inspector, made an exhaustive survey but was not yet prepared to announce any findings in the McCoy mine's first such disaster since it began operations in 1926.

A subdued and shocked grief, meanwhile, lay over this country of 500 where virtually everyone is related. A series of funerals will occupy their Easter weekend.

Poland Indicates It Will Support Spanish Inquiry

Nation Which Demanded Break with Franco May Back Compromise

By LARRY HAUCK

NEW YORK, April 19, (AP)—Poland was reported today ready to back Australia's compromise proposal on the controversial Spanish question, apparently clearing the way for the United Nations Security Council to order a four-week investigation of the Franco regime.

Ambassador Oscar Lange, who originally presented the demand for a world-wide rupture of diplomatic relations with Franco Spain, was said to have indicated to the Australians that he would support the call for a full inquiry by a committee of five members of the council.

Informed quarters expressed the view that Russia, France and Mexico, supporters of Lange's resolution, would fall in line.

The United States and Great Britain have maintained from the first that they were interested in having all the facts aired and it was considered they might approve the Australian plan when the council reconvenes at 3 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time) Tuesday.

There was some speculation as to whether observers might visit Spain to gather material for the report, which would be due May 17. The resolution by Col. W. R. Hodgson, Australian delegate, asked the committee "to examine the statements made before the Security council concerning Spain, to call further written statements and documentary evidence from members of the United Nations and from the Franco regime and to make such other inquiries as it may deem fit."

It was recalled that Generalissimo Franco already has invited members of the United Nations who have diplomatic relations with his government to make an investigation in Spain. Of the council members presumably only five—the United States, Great Britain, Netherlands, Brazil and Egypt—would qualify.

However, indications were that the council would not get to the Spanish question until mid-week in view of the decision to put the Iranian issue first on the calendar when the council reconvenes.

Labor Secretary Seeks To Revive Soft Coal Talks

Schwellenbach Discloses Personal Entry into Conciliation Attempts

WASHINGTON, April 19 (AP) — Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach today assumed personal direction of government efforts to get John L. Lewis and the soft coal operators back into contract negotiations to end the nineteen-day bituminous mine strike.

Meanwhile the number of workers in associated industries made idle by the coal strike reached nearly 60,000, with the prospect of further layoffs.

The principal industries affected were steel mills and coalcarrying railroads.

Will Call Operators Back

He said he will call the operators back to Washington next week, and suggested he may invite them to meet with his Monday or Tuesday.

The labor secretary will confer with John L. Lewis and his United Mine Workers negotiating committee at a separate meeting, he said. Lewis is due to address the tri-district convention Wednesday at Hazelton, Pa., at which plans will be made for teminating the contract covering 75,000 hard coal miners. It can be ended June 1.

Lewis terminated the bituminous contract, covering 400,000 striking soft coal miners on April 1.

The bituminous operators, after waiting in Washington for more than a week for some development in the severed contract negotiations, notified Schwellenbach yesterday that they were going home. They said they would return if he called them.

Talks Broken Off April 10

The negotiations were broken off suddenly by Lewis on April 10 when the UMW leader said it would be "futile" to continue. The operators wanted to talk wages and hours; Lewis insisted that they commit themselves first to the principal of the mine safety measures he proposed and to creation of a union health and welfare fund.

The explosion yesterday at the McCoy, Va., mine of the Great Valley Anthracite Coal Corporation in which twelve miners were killed brought a quick reaction from Lewis.

"The death of these brave men should form another object lesson to the coal operators of the country and to the public at large as demonstrating the justice at large as imperative necessity of the coal industry agreeing in a new joint agreement to improving the safety standards and the health and welfare practices of our hazardous occupation," Lewis wired President John Howell, of the Parrot, Va., local.

Porter To Appeal To OPA Employes

WASHINGTON, April 19 (AP) — OPA Chief Paul Porter acted today to hold his price control staff together in the face of the House decision to shear the agency's powers.

Porter arranged to make a personal "stay-on-the-job" appeal Monday to 3,200 OPA employes here, and for similar meetings next week at regional and district offices. At the same time two farm state senators announced they would fight to keep the restrictions tacked on by the House in voting to extend OPA's life line months after July 1.

An OPA official said Porter is "anxious to quiet any uneasiness among staff members which may have resulted from passage of the House bill." Porter has said the House changes amount to "repeal of price control."

Administration leaders have expressed confidence that the agency will face better in the Senate and that a milder measure will emerge eventually from compromises between the two chambers.

Sen. Wherry, of Nebraska, the Republican whip, told reporters today he would fight for retention of the House amendments. Chairman Thomas (D-Okla), of the Senate's Agriculture committee, already had drafted amendments to end all of OPA's major controls except over rents.

Weather Bureau Sees Fair and Mild Easter

WASHINGTON, April 19 (AP)—The weather bureau tonight issued this nationwide forecast for Easter Sunday:

"Fair and mild weather will be enjoyed over most sections of the United States on Easter Sunday. Mostly sunny skies and pleasantly-mild temperatures are expected over the eastern half of the country.

Pauley Will Try Again To Crack Soviet Secrecy

Answer to Removal of Equipment from Manchuria Will Be Sought

WASHINGTON, April 19. (AP)—President Truman is sending Edwin W. Pauley, his reparations expert, back to the Far East about May 1 to try again to crack the iron secrecy hiding Soviet removals of industrial equipment and property from Manchuria and Korea.

This was announced today by Secretary of State Byrnes in his last scheduled news conference before he leaves for Paris Tuesday morning. There he is to begin on Thursday a momentous conference with Foreign Ministers Molotov, of Russia; Bevin, of Britain, and Bidault, of France in an effort to break the big power deadlock over European peace settlements.

The industrial equipment issue is one which has been a source of considerable irritation in Russian-American relations and it might come up informally at least at Paris.

Byrnes also said:

1. American land and air forces now being moved into Germany are not designed to cope with any particular expected emergency but are merely to bring up to planned strength units depleted by demobilization.

2. He has sent to Russia a new note designed to promote arrangements for negotiating a $1,000,000,000 American loan but that he will not disclose details because he wants to keep the American position fluid enough to change if necessary.

3. He has not received any direct, official reports of censorship in Iran and he hopes the unofficial reports are not true.

4. That the United States does not favor action by itself alone to arrange a peace settlement with Italy when the great powers already have agreed that the settlement should be made by many nations at the same time and when the Italian treaty is the first item on the Paris meeting next Thursday.

The Pauley mission was disclosed in response to an inquiry as to what Pauley, Byrnes and the president talked about when they met at the White House yesterday.

Vets' Surplus War Goods Bill Goes to Truman

Senate Completes Action on Measure, Debates British Loan

WASHINGTON, April 19 (AP)—The Senate completed congressional action and sent to the White House a bill granting veterans better priorities on surplus war goods today and then resumed debate on the British loan. The House was in recess for Easter.

Sen. Langer (R-ND), speaking against the $3,750,000,000 credit, criticized the Senate for meeting on Good Friday and read an account of the Crucifixion. Only four senators listened to him.

Senate committees also remained at work.

The Atomic Energy committee, delivering its formal report on the control bill, said that "an absolute government monopoly of production of fissionable materials" was indispensable "to effective domestic control."

The Foreign Relations committee heard a review from Secretary of State Byrnes in closed session of the big power deadlock over the peace treaties.

Richard H. Chiles, of the War Assets Administration, told the special Defense committee that his agency "could not trust" some army information. He related that winterized tractors which the army classed as "standard" were sold by mistake in Florida.

Chairman Murray (D-Mont), of the Labor committee, asked the treasury to look into the tax returns of contributors to the national physicians committee for the extension of medical service. Murray called it "mainly a propaganda organization" as its chairman, Dr. Edward H. Cary, Dallas, testified against compulsory health insurance.

James E. Kilday, special assistant to the attorney general, opposed the Bulwinkle bill before the Senate Commerce committee. He declared that the measure, providing for railroads to make rate agreements without liability to anti-trust action, would sanction a "private government."

Sen. McFarland (D-Ariz) claimed strong Senate support for his amendment to make the proposed $3,750,000,000 British loan condition-

"Arctic Whiteout" Almost Causes Plane To Collide with Reindeer

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON, April 19 (AP)—"Arctic whiteout," a far-northern freak that caused a near-collision between an airplane and a reindeer, has been nominated for addition to the vocabulary of weather men and fliers.

Leonard J. C. Hedine, of the United States Weather Bureau at Winnemucca, Nevada, described the "Arctic whiteout" today, defining it as a condition of the snow country wherein all visible land features are camouflaged, "blending earth and sky so that the horizon and all landmarks are indistinguishable."

He reported in the bulletin of the American Meteorological Society that it's a peculiar condition occurring in Northwestern Alaska during late winter and early spring, and constitutes "a menace to airmen."

A moderate snow cover of late winter, he says, can wipe out vision of all vegetation and ground marks in the large areas of treeless tundra through Western and Northern Alaska. And, when there's an overcast sky of snow-like clouds, no shadows are cast by objects on the ground below.

"When 'whiteout' occurs," he said, "it is impossible to tell by visual check from a plane whether or not the aircraft is upside down.

Chungking Admits Communists Have Seized Changchun

Acknowledgement Comes as Marshall Strives To Halt Civil War

CHUNGKING, Saturday, April 20 (AP)—Gen. Marshall's headquarters announced today that a formal request has been made through Chinese Communist channels for permission for five American news correspondents and two United States army officers to leave Communist-captured Changchun.

By HAROLD K. MILKS

CHUNGKING, Saturday, April 20—(AP)—A Chinese government spokesman acknowledged today that the Manchurian capital city of Changchun has been wrested from government troops by Chinese Communists — a fiery decision achieved as United States Gen. Marshall strove to halt China's renewed civil war.

The spokesman's concession, made as two fresh government armies moved to the troubled Manchurian arena, followed a semi-official dispatch from Mukden, government-held Manchurian city, which tended to confirm previous Communist claims of success at Changchun.

The dispatch said the pilot of a scouting plane dispatched to Changchun yesterday returned and reported no further evidence of fighting, which had been bitter in the city's streets. The flier said the last government strongpoint within city police headquarters was burning.

No News of Americans

The government of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek was without details of the city's occupation. Changchun radio communication with China has been cut since 6 p. m. Thursday.

The spokesman said there was no news on the American newsmen and United States military representatives in Changchun or on the more than 100 Chinese government officials sent to take over the city from the Russians.

Chinese Communists yesterday claimed Changchun's complete capture.

The official Communist New China news agency, announced the "liberation" of Changchun in a broadcast from Yenan, and Communist headquarters here later published the same report.

It was not confirmed immediately but the government had expected it and had acknowledged earlier that its small garrison held only two buildings in the Manchurian capital.

Reds Withdrew Sunday

Yenan asserted that "Commun-

German POWs Are Poisoned by Bread

FRANKFURT, Germany, April 19. (AP)—Nineteen hundred German prisoners of war were poisoned by arsenic in their bread early this week in an American camp and all are "seriously ill," United States headquarters announced tonight.

The mass poisoning struck down the prisoners in Stalag 13 near Nuenberg, but no deaths were reported.

Col. S. T. Williams, Denton, Tex., a regimental commander, said the poison was found on the crust. He said the arsenic might have been sprinkled on shelves against cockroaches and thus have gotten on the bread.

The bread for captured soldiers was obtained from a local German bakery by contract "in accordance with normal procedures," the announcement said. Police stood guard at the bakery to prevent German civilians from buying any bread there.

The first German soldier became ill Monday shortly after the weekly bread ration was delivered from the bakery and distributed to the men, Col. Williams said. Late Monday the number of men taken ill increased as the former soldiers began eating their ration.

The number soared until Wednesday, when the cause was determined and the prisoners were told not to eat their remaining bread Williams said.

Terminal Leave Pay Bill Sets Fixed Sums

WASHINGTON, April 19 (AP)—A bill to give the millions of enlisted men and women discharged from the armed services $200 apiece if they served overseas and $100 otherwise as terminal leave pay was introduced in the Senate today.

Sen. Johnson (D-Colo), Maybank (D-SC), McFarland (D-Ariz) and Chavez (D-NM) are the authors.

The fixed sums for all World War II enlisted personnel are designed to meet War and Navy department objections that the terminal pay proposals already pending in Congress would present tremendous administration problems.

HOOVER GIVES REPORT ON FAMINE IN EUROPE

Truman Recommends European Diet Two Days a Week

WASHINGTON, April 19 (AP) — The government tonight ordered American consumption of flour cut one-fourth below the level of this time last year, to meet what President Truman called history's "greatest threat of mass starvation."

The president, appealing to the "warm heart of America," urged the people anew to go on a European diet two days a week—diet that is less than half that of the average in this country.

The government order, effective at 12:01 a. m., Monday, was announced by Secretary of Agriculture Anderson in a nationwide all network radio broadcast in which the president also participated, along with former President Herbert Hoover, speaking from Cairo, and UNRRA Director Fiorello LaGuardia. The twenty-five per cent cut in flour consumption was part of a six-point program to get food for export.

The flour limitation order will cover a period ending June 30, Anderson said.

Hoover Reports

Hoover, apparently uninformed in advance of the mandatory steps announced simultaneously with his verbal report on famine in Europe, urged measures to approximately the same end. He suggested that the government get the food it needs as it did in wartime when there were mandatory set-asides. Hoover called on Britain, Russia and Latin America to help out too.

LaGuardia appealed "desperately" to farmers to furnish the needed wheat. The next ninety days, he said, "will mean eternity for a great many who are on the brink of death."

Mr. Truman, in a brief address introducing the other speakers, asking every American to eat less and to share his food, declared:

"America cannot remain healthy and happy in the same world where millions of human beings are starv-

Iran Does Not Have Censorship, Firouz Declares

Propaganda Chief Denies News Dispatches Have Been Stopped

By JOSEPH C. GOODWIN

TEHRAN, April 19 (AP) — Iran's director of propaganda denied today that "any censorship whatsoever" had been imposed on news dispatches from Iran, and said that suppression of one corespondent's stories had been "an isolated incident."

Prince Mozaffar Firouz, who is also minister of state, said two suppressed dispatches contained "fantastic stories and rumors" whose circulation was illegal.

(An official announcement by the United States State Department on Wednesday said: "The American embassy in Tehran has informed the Department of State that foreign correspondents in Iran have been notified officially by the Iranian ministry of posts and telegraphs that it henceforth will exercise censorship of dispatches filed by foreign correspondents there.")

Referring to two dispatches by the London Times correspondent suppressed recently by the ministry of posts and telegraph, Firouz said the ministry's action was taken "in accordance with provisions of Article 26, of the international posts and telegraph convention, to which both Great Britain and Persia are signatories."

Firouz charged that the dispatches "contained contents against the throne and other fantastic stories and rumors, circulation of which in this country is contrary to law and

Four-Power Council For Japan Adjourns

TOKYO, April 19 (AP)—The four-power Allied Council for Japan adjourned tonight until April 30 after hearing its British commonwealth member voice the fear it might become a four-power farce.

W. MacMahon Ball, the commonwealth member, voiced apprehension that the council might degenerate into an international joke during a lively discussion over how long a representative of Gen. MacArthur should be allowed to talk without interruption.

Ball said he was referring specifically to anyone presenting facts "in such a way as to reduce our council to ridicule."

Previously Ball, together with the Russian and Chinese members, had proposed that a time limit be placed on the presentation of information requested from MacArthur. The United States member objected that such a limit would infringe upon free speech.

GOP National Chairman Assails PAC As "Spearhead of Red Reactionism"

WASHINGTON, April 19. (AP)—B. Carroll Reece, making his first nationwide broadcast as Republican national chairman, assailed the CIO-Politicial Action Committee tonight as "the spearhead of Red reactionism."

He declared that "we can elect" a Republican Congress in November "but we must not assume it will be an easy task."

"Already," he continued, "we have been put on notice by the leaders of the Political Action Committee—the spearhead of Red reactionism in the United States—that they are raising a campaign slush fund of $6,000,000 to be used to defeat members of Congress who refuse to do their bidding.

"Perhaps I should remark in passing that existing law limits expenditures by the national committee of any political party to $3,000,000 in any one year. Apparently, however, under the law as enforced by the present administration, there is no limit upon the expenditures which may be made by the Political Action Committee.

"Remember that this $6,000,000 fund is in addition to whatever may be spent by the National Committee of the Democrat party to assist the PAC in its current attempt to 'purge' Democrat members of Congress who have committed the crime of voting for the maintenance of American principles of government."

Reece renewed his assertions that "the Republican party is the liberal party in America," adding that he does not wish to intimate "that only Republicans are devoted to the maintenance of our form of government."

"There are many Democrats, both in and out of Congress, who are willing to stand up and be counted in support of true Republican principles," he said. "But the assistance of 'captive Democrats' in Congress is not fully effective so long as they are compelled to support their party on organization issues."

Candidates Have until Midnight To Withdraw from Primary Lists

By JAMES E. HAGUE

BALTIMORE, April 19. (AP)—Tomorrow is the final day of decision for candidates for nominations to state-wide offices and to Congress at the June 24 primaries in Maryland.

The voters will do the deciding from then on.

Last Monday at midnight, the door was closed on new candidacies. Tomorrow at midnight, the secretary of state at Annapolis will close another figurative door—the one through which candidates wishing to withdraw must go.

No withdrawals from the primary lists will be accepted after that hour. Those who aren't off the tickets by then will be on the ballots June 24. The withdrawal deadline was deferred a day because of Good Friday.

The deadline was expected to come and go without any important changes in the battle lines for the forthcoming primary. Most observers felt that if a harmony move by either Democrats or Republicans were to be successful, the portents would have been noted last Monday.

They reasoned that any compromise whereby one major candidate for an office dropped out of the race would probably have involved another spot on the team for him. Now any one who drops off the ticket to avoid a primary fight remains off.

Only one person, Paul Robertson, Baltimore city Republican chairman, has filed for two offices. He is out for the nomination to the United States Senate and to Congress in the Fourth district. He was legally able by tomorrow night. Otherwise, the choice will be made for him, probably on the basis of filing date. He filed for senatorial nomination first.

One minor contender withdrew this week and others may occur before the deadline. Hugh Cross, Baltimore, dropped out of the Democratic gubernatorial field, reducing it to seven.

At the same time two farm state senators announced they would fight to keep the restrictions tacked on by the House in voting to extend OPA's life line months after July 1.

An OPA official said Porter is "anxious to quiet any uneasiness among staff members which may have resulted from passage of the House bill." Porter has said the House changes amount to "repeal of price control."

Administration leaders have expressed confidence that the agency will face better in the Senate and that a milder measure will emerge eventually from compromises between the two chambers.

Sen. Wherry, of Nebraska, the Republican whip, told reporters today he would fight for retention of the House amendments. Chairman Thomas (D-Okla), of the Senate's Agriculture committee, already had drafted amendments to end all of OPA's major controls except over rents.

Weather Bureau Sees Fair and Mild Easter

WASHINGTON, April 19 (AP)—The weather bureau tonight issued this nationwide forecast for Easter Sunday:

"Fair and mild weather will be enjoyed over most sections of the United States on Easter Sunday. Mostly sunny skies and pleasantly-mild temperatures are expected over the eastern half of the country."

Pauley Will Try Again To Crack Soviet Secrecy

Answer to Removal of Equipment from Manchuria Will Be Sought

WASHINGTON, April 19. (AP)—President Truman is sending Edwin W. Pauley, his reparations expert, back to the Far East about May 1 to try again to crack the iron secrecy hiding Soviet removals of industrial equipment and property from Manchuria and Korea.

This was announced today by Secretary of State Byrnes in his last scheduled news conference before he leaves for Paris Tuesday morning. There he is to begin on Thursday a momentous conference with Foreign Ministers Molotov, of Russia; Bevin, of Britain, and Bidault, of France in an effort to break the big power deadlock over European peace settlements.

The industrial equipment issue is one which has been a source of considerable irritation in Russian-American relations and it might come up informally at least at Paris.

Byrnes also said:

1. American land and air forces now being moved into Germany are not designed to cope with any particular expected emergency but are merely to bring up to planned strength units depleted by demobilization.

2. He has sent to Russia a new note designed to promote arrangements for negotiating a $1,000,000,000 American loan but that he will not disclose details because he wants to keep the American position fluid enough to change if necessary.

3. He has not received any direct, official reports of censorship in Iran and he hopes the unofficial reports are not true.

4. That the United States does not favor action by itself alone to arrange a peace settlement with Italy when the great powers already have agreed that the settlement should be made by many nations at the same time and when the Italian treaty is the first item on the Paris meeting next Thursday.

The Pauley mission was disclosed in response to an inquiry as to what Pauley, Byrnes and the president talked about when they met at the White House yesterday.

Vets' Surplus War Goods Bill Goes to Truman

Senate Completes Action on Measure, Debates British Loan

WASHINGTON, April 19 (AP)—The Senate completed congressional action and sent to the White House a bill granting veterans better priorities on surplus war goods today and then resumed debate on the British loan. The House was in recess for Easter.

Sen. Langer (R-ND), speaking against the $3,750,000,000 credit, criticized the Senate for meeting on Good Friday and read an account of the Crucifixion. Only four senators listened to him.

Senate committees also remained at work.

The Atomic Energy committee, delivering its formal report on the control bill, said that "an absolute government monopoly of production of fissionable materials" was indispensable "to effective domestic control."

The Foreign Relations committee heard a review from Secretary of State Byrnes in closed session of the big power deadlock over the peace treaties.

Richard H. Chiles, of the War Assets Administration, told the special Defense committee that his agency "could not trust" some army information. He related that winterized tractors which the army classed as "standard" were sold by mistake in Florida.

Chairman Murray (D-Mont), of the Labor committee, asked the treasury to look into the tax returns of contributors to the national physicians committee for the extension of medical service. Murray called it "mainly a propaganda organization" as its chairman, Dr. Edward H. Cary, Dallas, testified against compulsory health insurance.

James E. Kilday, special assistant to the attorney general, opposed the Bulwinkle bill before the Senate Commerce committee. He declared that the measure, providing for railroads to make rate agreements without liability to anti-trust action, would sanction a "private government."

Sen. McFarland D-Ariz) claimed strong Senate support for his amendment to make the proposed $3,750,000,000 British loan condition-

"Arctic Whiteout" Almost Causes Plane To Collide with Reindeer

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON, April 19 (AP)—"Arctic whiteout," a far-northern freak that caused a near-collision between an airplane and a reindeer, has been nominated for addition to the vocabulary of weather men and fliers.

Leonard J. C. Hedine, of the United States Weather Bureau at Winnemucca, Nevada, described the "Arctic whiteout" today, defining it as a condition of the snow country wherein all visible land features are camouflaged, "blending earth and sky so that the horizon and all landmarks are indistinguishable."

He reported in the bulletin of the American Meteorological Society that it's a peculiar condition occurring in Northwestern Alaska during late winter and early spring, and constitutes "a menace to airmen."

A moderate snow cover of late winter, he says, can wipe out vision of all vegetation and ground marks in the large areas of treeless tundra through Western and Northern Alaska. And, when there's an overcast sky of snow-like clouds, no shadows are cast by objects on the ground below.

"When 'whiteout' occurs," he said, "it is impossible to tell by visual check from a plane whether or not the aircraft is upside down.

Chungking Admits Communists Have Seized Changchun

Acknowledgement Comes as Marshall Strives To Halt Civil War

CHUNGKING, Saturday, April 20 (AP)—Gen. Marshall's headquarters announced today that a formal request has been made through Chinese Communist channels for permission for five American news correspondents and two United States army officers to leave Communist-captured Changchun.

By HAROLD K. MILKS

CHUNGKING, Saturday, April 20—(AP)—A Chinese government spokesman acknowledged today that the Manchurian capital city of Changchun has been wrested from government troops by Chinese Communists — a fiery decision achieved as United States Gen. Marshall strove to halt China's renewed civil war.

The spokesman's concession, made as two fresh government armies moved to the troubled Manchurian arena, followed a semi-official dispatch from Mukden, government-held Manchurian city, which tended to confirm previous Communist claims of success at Changchun.

The dispatch said the pilot of a scouting plane dispatched to Changchun yesterday returned and reported no further evidence of fighting, which had been bitter in the city's streets. The flier said the last government strongpoint within city police headquarters was burning.

No News of Americans

The government of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek was without details of the city's occupation. Changchun radio communication with China has been cut since 6 p. m. Thursday.

The spokesman said there was no news on the American newsmen and United States military representatives in Changchun or on the more than 100 Chinese government officials sent to take over the city from the Russians.

Chinese Communists yesterday claimed Changchun's complete capture.

The official Communist New China news agency, announced the "liberation" of Changchun in a broadcast from Yenan, and Communist headquarters here later published the same report.

It was not confirmed immediately but the government had expected it and had acknowledged earlier that its small garrison held only two buildings in the Manchurian capital.

German POWs Are Poisoned by Bread

FRANKFURT, Germany, April 19 (AP)—Nineteen hundred German prisoners of war were poisoned by arsenic in their bread early this week in an American camp and all are "seriously ill," United States headquarters announced tonight.

The mass poisoning struck down the prisoners in Stalag 13 near Nuenberg, but no deaths were reported.

Col. S. T. Williams, Denton, Tex., a regimental commander, said the poison was found on the crust. He said the arsenic might have been sprinkled on shelves against cockroaches and thus have gotten on the bread.

The bread for captured soldiers was obtained from a local German bakery by contract "in accordance with normal procedures," the announcement said. Police stood guard at the bakery to prevent German civilians from buying any bread there.

The first German soldier became ill Monday shortly after the weekly bread ration was delivered from the bakery and distributed to the men, Col. Williams said. Late Monday the number of men taken ill increased as the former soldiers began eating their ration.

The number soared until Wednesday, when the cause was determined and the prisoners were told not to eat their remaining bread Williams said.

Terminal Leave Pay Bill Sets Fixed Sums

WASHINGTON, April 19 (AP)—A bill to give the millions of enlisted men and women discharged from the armed services $200 apiece if they served overseas and $100 otherwise as terminal leave pay was introduced in the Senate today.

Sen. Johnson (D-Colo), Maybank (D-SC), McFarland (D-Ariz) and Chavez (D-NM) are the authors.

The fixed sums for all World War II enlisted personnel are designed to meet War and Navy department objections that the terminal pay proposals already pending in Congress would present tremendous administration problems.

Truman Recommends European Diet Two Days a Week

WASHINGTON, April 19 (AP) — The government tonight ordered American consumption of flour cut one-fourth below the level of this time last year, to meet what President Truman called history's "greatest threat of mass starvation."

The president, appealing to the "warm heart of America," urged the people anew to go on a European diet two days a week—diet that is less than half that of the average in this country.

The government order, effective at 12:01 a. m., Monday, was announced by Secretary of Agriculture Anderson in a nationwide all network radio broadcast in which the president also participated, along with former President Herbert Hoover, speaking from Cairo, and UNRRA Director Florello LaGuardia. The twenty-five per cent cut in flour consumption was part of a six-point program to get food for export.

The flour limitation order will cover a period ending June 30, Anderson said.

Hoover Reports

Hoover, apparently uninformed in advance of the mandatory steps announced simultaneously with his verbal report on famine in Europe, urged measures to approximately the same end. He suggested that the government get the food it needs as it did in wartime when there were mandatory set-asides. Hoover called on Britain, Russia and Latin America to help out too.

LaGuardia appealed "desperately" to farmers to furnish the needed wheat. The next ninety days, he said, "will mean eternity for a great many who are on the brink of death."

Mr. Truman, in a brief address introducing the other speakers, asking every American to eat less and to share his food, declared:

"America cannot remain healthy and happy in the same world where millions of human beings are starv-

Iran Does Not Have Censorship, Firouz Declares

By JOSEPH C. GOODWIN

TEHRAN, April 19 (AP) — Iran's director of propaganda denied today that "any censorship whatsoever" had been imposed on news dispatches from Iran, and said that suppression of one corespondent's stories had been "an isolated incident."

Prince Mozaffar Firouz, who is also minister of state, said two suppressed dispatches contained "fantastic stories and rumors" whose circulation was illegal.

(An official announcement by the United States State Department on Wednesday said: "The American embassy in Tehran has informed the Department of State that foreign correspondents in Iran have been notified officially by the Iranian ministry of posts and telegraphs that it henceforth will exercise censorship of dispatches filed by foreign correspondents there.")

Referring to two dispatches by the London Times correspondent suppressed recently by the ministry of posts and telegraph, Firouz said the ministry's action was taken "in accordance with provisions of Article 26, of the international posts and telegraph convention, to which both Great Britain and Persia are signatories."

Firouz charged that the dispatches "contained contents against the throne and other fantastic stories and rumors, circulation of which in this country is contrary to law and

Four-Power Council For Japan Adjourns

TOKYO, April 19 (AP)—The four-power Allied Council for Japan adjourned tonight until April 30 after hearing its British commonwealth member voice the fear it might become a four-power farce.

W. MacMahon Ball, the commonwealth member, voiced apprehension that the council might degenerate into an international joke during a lively discussion over how long a representative of Gen. MacArthur should be allowed to talk without interruption.

Ball said he was referring specifically to anyone presenting facts "in such a way as to reduce our council to ridicule."

Previously Ball, together with the Russian and Chinese members, had proposed that a time limit be placed on the presentation of information requested from MacArthur. The United States member objected that such a limit would infringe upon free speech.

GOP National Chairman Assails PAC As "Spearhead of Red Reactionism"

WASHINGTON, April 19. (AP)—B. Carroll Reece, making his first nationwide broadcast as Republican national chairman, assailed the CIO-Politicial Action Committee tonight as "the spearhead of Red reactionism."

He declared that "we can elect" a Republican Congress in November "but we must not assume it will be an easy task."

"Already," he continued, "we have been put on notice by the leaders of the Political Action Committee—the spearhead of Red reactionism in the United States—that they are raising a campaign slush fund of $6,000,000 to be used to defeat members of Congress who refuse to do their bidding.

"Perhaps I should remark in passing that existing law limits expenditures by the national committee of any political party to $3,000,000 in any one year. Apparently, however, under the law as enforced by the present administration, there is no limit upon the expenditures which may be made by the Political Action Committee.

"Remember that this $6,000,000 fund is in addition to whatever may be spent by the National Committee of the Democrat party to assist the PAC in its current attempt to 'purge' Democrat members of Congress who have committed the crime of voting for the maintenance of American principles of government."

Reece renewed his assertions that "the Republican party is the liberal party in America," adding that he does not wish to intimate "that only Republicans are devoted to the maintenance of our form of government."

"There are many Democrats, both in and out of Congress, who are willing to stand up and be counted in support of true Republican principles," he said. "But the assistance of 'captive Democrats' in Congress is not fully effective so long as they are compelled to support their party on organization issues."

Candidates Have until Midnight To Withdraw from Primary Lists

By JAMES E. HAGUE

BALTIMORE, April 19. (AP)—Tomorrow is the final day of decision for candidates for nominations to state-wide offices and to Congress at the June 24 primaries in Maryland.

The voters will do the deciding from then on.

Last Monday at midnight, the door was closed on new candidacies. Tomorrow at midnight, the secretary of state at Annapolis will close another figurative door—the one through which candidates wishing to withdraw must go.

No withdrawals from the primary lists will be accepted after that hour. Those who aren't off the tickets by then will be on the ballots June 24. The withdrawal deadline was deferred a day because of Good Friday.

The deadline was expected to come and go without any important changes in the battle lines for the forthcoming primary. Most observers felt that if a harmony move by either Democrats or Republicans were to be successful, the portents would have been noted last Monday.

They reasoned that any compromise whereby one major candidate for an office dropped out of the race would probably have involved another spot on the team for him. Now any one who drops off the ticket to avoid a primary fight remains off.

Only one person, Paul Robertson, Baltimore city Republican chairman, has filed for two offices. He is out for the nomination to the United States Senate and to Congress in the Fourth district. He was legally able by tomorrow night. Otherwise, the choice will be made for him, probably on the basis of filing date. He filed for senatorial nomination first.

One minor contender withdrew this week and others may occur before the deadline. Hugh Cross, Baltimore, dropped out of the Democratic gubernatorial field, reducing it to seven.

Safety Measures Shown At Oil Conference

Representatives of Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, conducted an accident precention meeting at Fort Cumberland hotel here yesterday.

Robert B. MacBeth, the company's representative in this area, said the discussion and demonstration covered the safe operation of motor vehicles, and proper methods for safety storing and transporting petroleum products.

J. E. Jeffries, assistant safety engineer, gave a demonstration with a scale model tank truck, showing necessary safety precautions.

Albert Dormaier, automitive safety engineer, showed motion pictures illustrating courtesy, caution and consideration on streets and highways.

Others from this city attending the meeting were Robert E. Weires, supervisor of the company's bulk oil plant here; J. M. Dillon, H. T. Hutsler, J. M. Patterson, G. J. Leyh together with repjresentatives from Baltimore, Hagerstown and Oakland and from Elkins and Petersburg, W Va.

ing. A sound world order can never be built upon a foundation of human misery."

Anderson's Program

Anderson's program for meeting the need outlined by the chief executive was this:

(1) Millers will be required to limit domestic distribution of flour to seventy-five per cent of the amount they delivered in the corrsponding months last year. This order becomes effective at 12:01 a. m. Monday.

(2) The government will offer farmers a bonus of thirty cents a bushel of wheat delivered to the government by May 25. The bonus is designed to entice upwards of 160,000,000 bushels of wheat off farms during the current world famine crisis.

(3) The government will offer to buy 50,000,000 bushels of corn from farmers at a bonus of thirty cents a bushel over current ceiling prices. Corn obtained under the bonus would be resold to feeders and processors in urgent need.

(4) Food manufacturers will be required to limit their use of wheat in the manufacture of products for domestic human consumption to seventy-five per cent of the quantity used in the corresponding months of 1945. This action also becomes effective Monday, April 22.

U. S. Will Buy Oatmeal

(5) Millers and food manufacturers will be limited effective May 1 to twenty-one days' inventory of wheat. This action is designed to reduce domestice wheat to make more available for export.

(6) The government will offer to buy an unlimited amount of oatmeal from millers for export to hungry areas.

Anderson said the program was adopted after consultation with the governments of Canada and the United Kingdom.

"These measures," Anderson said, have been taken only out of dire necessity to meet urgent relief needs. We are faced with a situation in which very additional bushel of grain that can be saved in this country will save additional lives abroad.

"These measures are not a substitute," he said, "for voluntary conservation efforts."

Hoover laid down the need for more food abroad in hard figures and set forth a six-point plan for meeting that need. He said that Britain had a million tons of breadstuffs in pipelines" and stocks—double the prewar standard—and proposed that she turn over half of it to feed hungry people.

He recommended that Russia raise from 75,000 to 300,000 tons a month her contribution of the wheat to the world's famine-stricken areas.

Hoover To Continue Tour

He suggested that Latin American countries import forty per cent less wheat and flour from the United States, Canada and Argentina.

For the United States, the only living former president recommended an export goal of an average of 1,100,000 tons of wheat a month to famine regions in April, May, June and July.

In addition, Hoover proposed that all European nations whose cereal ration exceeded the equivalent of 300 grams of bread a day per person reduce that ration to 300 grams.

His final point was that smaller liberated nations, with smaller domestic resources—the nations that had "suffered most"— be given priority in supplies.

Hoover reported as honorary chairman of the Famine Emergency Committee. He is traveling around the world to survey famine conditions at Mr. Truman's request.

But while the chief executive had suggested that Hoover return to this country now to help stimulate the campaign for food conservation and sharing at home, the former president preferred to go on from Cairo to India, China and Japan to get a more complete picture of the global situation. Mr. Truman acceded.

According to his future wife, Pratt has two faults: one, he plays the drums; secondly, he likes "loud" ties. He was sporting a beautiful pastel colored one with a flower design in the center. When his fiance called attention to the cravat, his face lighted with a big smile," well I don't have to look at them now, so I pick them bright."

Pratt and his bride-to-be have been doing a lot of apartment hunting during the past week but all to no avail. "There just isn't anything to be had," they say.

Pratt was inducted into the army when the song, "Goodby, Dear, I'll Be Back in a Year" was a promise and not just a pretty tune. But he saw 19 months of foreign service before he was wounded. Besides the Purple Heart Medal, he holds the ETO ribbon with five battle stars (it's really six, according to him, but the separation center personnel didn't enter the last one on his discharge) the Pre-Pearl Harbor, American Defense and Victory ribbons and the Good Conduct medal.

Pratt attended St. Mary's grade school and the old Pennsylvania avenue high school. Miss Busch is a graduate of Plumville high school, Plumville, Pa., and the Kittanning Business School, Kittanning, Pa.

Man Is Injured

Four persons were treated in Allegany hospital yesterday morning. They are Mrs. William Leasure, 31, Bowling Green, for a laceration of the bridge of her nose, suffered in a fall down several steps; Lewis Stitcher, 21, 417 Valley street, for a right wrist injury received in a fall; James Flynn, 29, 951 Bedford street, fo ra nose injury sustained when struck by a piece of metal while at work, and Mrs. Blanche Northcraft, 49, 127 Third street, who fainted on a local street.

At this point, Sisson explained that the third floor dormitory has about forty-four rooms, while the second floor has only fourteen, a substantial increase over the number of rooms Mrs. Johnson cared for when she was working in the old building.

In her thirty-three years of working for the YMCA, Mrs. Johnson estimates that she has cleaned rooms for about 6,000 different dormitory residents.

"Mother" To Residents

Although she confessed to having an especially warm spot in her heart for the "boys in service," she said she feels like a mother to all dormitory residents, past and present, whom she refers to as "my boys."

"They tell me their troubles, and ask my advice, and most of them call me 'Mother,' " she said. "One of the men living upstairs now is waiting for me to finish mending two of his shirts."

Mrs. Johnson came to Cumberland from Cresaptown in 1905 after the death of her husband, James Johnson, a construction worker at Pinto. In order to care for her three small daughters, she took in sewing and did washing and ironing for her neighbors.

One of her daughters, Mrs. Lucy Gibbs, is now living in Baltimore, but the other two reside in Cumberland. They are Mrs. Helen McKearn, 556 North Mechanic street, and Miss Lillian Johnson, who followed in her mother's footsteps and will celebrate her twenty-third year today of working for a family in the Dingle.

Asked how many YMCA secretaries had been in office during her long service at the "Y", Mrs. Johnson thought hard and counted five of them.

"Mr. (R. H.) Lynch was secretary until about a year after I went to work in the old YMCA building, and then W. H. Baxley was secretary for several years," she said. "Mr. Lewis was the last secretary in the old building and the first in the new one, and Allan Weatherholt filled in as reconstruction director between the time Mr. Lewis resigned and Mr. (Everett) Johnson came here about four years ago. Mr. Sisson is the fifth."

Mrs. Johnson has been reporting for duty at 7:30 a. m. and working until 4 p. m. for the thirty-three years she has been dormitory matron. Often, she recalled, she would stay over and help out in the cafeteria in the evening, although she hasn't felt strong enough to do extra work in recent years.

She recalled that one day several years ago, Johnson, the former secretary, was horrified to find her braced on a window ledge outside one of the third-floor dormitory rooms, busily washing windows.

"Mr. Johnson told me I'd have to stop that kind of work, at my age," she said.

Apparently the former secretary's advice has been preying on her mind, for Mrs. Johnson decided recently that her health will not permit her to continue working full time as dormitory matron, and several weeks ago she asked to be relieved of her duties.

Farewell Party Planned

Her successor is Mrs. Leona Brant, 105 Frederick street, who has been acting as Mrs. Johnson's assistant for the past year.

A farewell party for both Mrs. Johnson and Oscar I. Bergstrom, associate general YMCA secretary, whose resignation will be effective May 15, will be held in the clubrooms at the "Y" April 29 at 7 p. m., Sisson said.

When the interview was over, Mrs. Johnson got briskly to her feet.

"I'm going back upstairs," she said. "I still have two rooms to finish straightening."

the Potomac river basin," Wheeler said.

"The Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors and the chief of engineers did not however recommend the authorization of this comprehensive plan at this time because of the very strong opposition to the plan expressed in the public hearings held by the board.

"If the comprehensive plan or any part thereof should be undertaken in the future, the Savage river dam would contribute its share to the overall benefits."

Both Beall and Randolph told the committee, which is now writing an omnibus flood control bill, that pollution abatement would benefit towns as far downstream as Washington.

They said also that the dam, if operative, would greatly alleviate perennial low water conditions in Cumberland and other towns, thus benefiting industry.

Anderson Announces

ing. A sound world order can never be built upon a foundation of human misery."

Anderson's Program

Anderson's program for meeting the need outlined by the chief executive was this:

(1) Millers will be required to limit domestic distribution of flour to seventy-five per cent of the amount they delivered in the corresponding months last year. This order becomes effective at 12:01 a. m. Monday.

(2) The government will offer farmers a bonus of thirty cents a bushel of wheat delivered to the government by May 25. The bonus is designed to entice upwards of 160,000,000 bushels of wheat off farms during the current world famine crisis.

(3) The government will offer to buy 50,000,000 bushels of corn from farmers at a bonus of thirty cents a bushel over current ceiling prices. Corn obtained under the bonus would be resold to feeders and processors in urgent need.

(4) Food manufacturers will be required to limit their use of wheat in the manufacture of products for domestic human consumption to seventy-five per cent of the quantity used in the corresponding months of 1945. This action also becomes effective Monday, April 22.

U. S. Will Buy Oatmeal

(5) Millers and food manufacturers will be limited effective May 1 to twenty-one days' inventory of wheat. This action is designed to reduce domestice wheat to make more available for export.

(6) The government will offer to buy an unlimited amount of oatmeal from millers for export to hungry areas.

Anderson said the program was adopted after consultation with the governments of Canada and the United Kingdom.

"These measures," Anderson said, have been taken only out of dire necessity to meet urgent relief needs. We are faced with a situation in which very additional bushel of grain that can be saved in this country will save additional lives abroad.

"These measures are not a substitute," he said, "for voluntary conservation efforts."

Hoover laid down the need for more food abroad in hard figures and set forth a six-point plan for meeting that need. He said that Britain had a million tons of breadstuffs in pipelines" and stocks—double the prewar standard—and proposed that she turn over half of it to feed hungry people.

He recommended that Russia raise from 75,000 to 300,000 tons a month her contribution of the wheat to the world's famine-stricken areas.

Hoover To Continue Tour

He suggested that Latin American countries import forty per cent less wheat and flour from the United States, Canada and Argentina.

For the United States, the only living former president recommended an export goal of an average of 1,100,000 tons of wheat a month to famine regions in April, May, June and July.

In addition, Hoover proposed that all European nations whose cereal ration exceeded the equivalent of 300 grams of bread a day per person reduce that ration to 300 grams.

His final point was that smaller liberated nations, with smaller domestic resources—the nations that had "suffered most"— be given priority in supplies.

Hoover reported as honorary chairman of the Famine Emergency Committee. He is traveling around the world to survey famine conditions at Mr. Truman's request.

But while the chief executive had suggested that Hoover return to this country now to help stimulate the campaign for food conservation and sharing at home, the former president preferred to go on from Cairo to India, China and Japan to get a more complete picture of the global situation. Mr. Truman acceded.

He added "I would like to point out further that no transmission of telegrams of other correspondents has been stopped, and it is very unfortunate that such an isolated incident should be interpreted by the Times correspondent as censorship."

A National Telegraph official told foreign newsmen yesterday that their stories telling of the Iranian government's invoking of Article 26 of the 1932 Madrid communications agreement had been sent after being held up for six hours. Wednesday the official said the messages would not be sent until they were given "government approval."

days, have a great deal of music that just doesn't tie in with the plot of the picture, and it's a bit confusing, he says. Worst of all are the animated cartoons that seem to be shown so frequent, he thinks. Pratt like music though, in fact he has quite a collection of popular records.

According to his future wife, Pratt has two faults: one, he plays the drums; secondly, he likes "loud" ties. He was sporting a beautiful pastel colored one with a flower design in the center. When his fiance called attention to the cravat, his face lighted with a big smile," well I don't have to look at them now, so I pick them bright."

Pratt and his bride-to-be have been doing a lot of apartment hunting during the past week but all to no avail. "There just isn't anything to be had," they say.

Pratt was inducted into the army when the song, "Goodby, Dear, I'll Be Back in a Year" was a promise and not just a pretty tune. But he saw 19 months of foreign service before he was wounded. Besides the Purple Heart Medal, he holds the ETO ribbon with five battle stars (it's really six, according to him, but the separation center personnel didn't enter the last one on his discharge) the Pre-Pearl Harbor, American Defense and Victory ribbons and the Good Conduct medal.

Pratt attended St. Mary's grade school and the old Pennsylvania avenue high school. Miss Busch is a graduate of Plumville high school, Plumville, Pa., and the Kittanning Business School, Kittanning, Pa.

Four persons were treated in Allegany hospital yesterday morning. They are Mrs. William Leasure, 31, Bowling Green, for a laceration of the bridge of her nose, suffered in a fall down several steps; Lewis Stitcher, 21, 417 Valley street, for a right wrist injury received in a fall; James Flynn, 29, 951 Bedford street, fo ra nose injury sustained when struck by a piece of metal while at work, and Mrs. Blanche Northcraft, 49, 127 Third street, who fainted on a local street.

At this point, Sisson explained that the third floor dormitory has about forty-four rooms, while the second floor has only fourteen, a substantial increase over the number of rooms Mrs. Johnson cared for when she was working in the old building.

In her thirty-three years of working for the YMCA, Mrs. Johnson estimates that she has cleaned rooms for about 6,000 different dormitory residents.

"Mother" To Residents

Although she confessed to having an especially warm spot in her heart for the "boys in service," she said she feels like a mother to all dormitory residents, past and present, whom she refers to as "my boys."

"They tell me their troubles, and ask my advice, and most of them call me 'Mother.' " she said. "One of the men living upstairs now is waiting for me to finish mending two of his shirts."

Mrs. Johnson came to Cumberland from Cresaptown in 1905 after the death of her husband, James Johnson, a construction worker at Pinto. In order to care for her three small daughters, she took in sewing and did washing and ironing for her neighbors.

One of her daughters, Mrs. Lucy Gibbs, is now living in Baltimore, but the other two reside in Cumberland. They are Mrs. Helen McKearn, 556 North Mechanic street, and Miss Lillian Johnson, who followed in her mother's footsteps and will celebrate her twenty-third year today of working for a family in the Dingle.

Asked how many YMCA secretaries had been in office during her long service at the "Y", Mrs. Johnson thought hard and counted five of them.

"Mr. (R. H.) Lynch was secretary until about a year after I went to work in the old YMCA building, and then W. H. Baxley was secretary for several years," she said. "Mr. Lewis was the last secretary in the old building and the first in the new one, and Allan Weatherholt filled in as reconstruction director between the time Mr. Lewis resigned and Mr. (Everett) Johnson came here about four years ago. Mr. Sisson is the fifth."

Mrs. Johnson has been reporting for duty at 7:30 a. m. and working until 4 p. m. for the thirty-three years she has been dormitory matron. Often, she recalled, she would stay over and help out in the cafeteria in the evening, although she hasn't felt strong enough to do extra work in recent years.

She recalled that one day several years ago, Johnson, the former secretary, was horrified to find her braced on a window ledge outside one of the third-floor dormitory rooms, busily washing windows.

"Mr. Johnson told me I'd have to stop that kind of work, at my age," she said.

Apparently the former secretary's advice has been preying on her mind, for Mrs. Johnson decided recently that her health will not permit her to continue working full time as dormitory matron, and several weeks ago she asked to be relieved of her duties.

Farewell Party Planned

Her successor is Mrs. Leona Brant, 105 Frederick street, who has been acting as Mrs. Johnson's assistant for the past year.

A farewell party for both Mrs. Johnson and Oscar I. Bergstrom, associate general YMCA secretary, whose resignation will be effective May 15, will be held in the clubrooms at the "Y" April 29 at 7 p. m., Sisson said.

When the interview was over, Mrs. Johnson got briskly to her feet.

"I'm going back upstairs," she said. "I still have two rooms to finish straightening."

Completion of Service

the Potomac river basin," Wheeler said.

"The Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors and the chief of engineers did not however recommend the authorization of this comprehensive plan at this time because of the very strong opposition to the plan expressed in the public hearings held by the board.

"If the comprehensive plan or any part thereof should be undertaken in the future, the Savage river dam would contribute its share to the overall benefits."

Both Beall and Randolph told the committee, which is now writing an omnibus flood control bill, that pollution abatement would benefit towns as far downstream as Washington.

They said also that the dam, if operative, would greatly alleviate perennial low water conditions in Cumberland and other towns, thus benefitting industry.

Federal Spenders Are Still at It

CONTINUING its campaign for federal economy, the Maryland Public Expenditures Council is directing attention to the fact that seventeen departments and agencies classified as general government in the federal budget are asking for appropriations totaling $1,565,000,000 for next year. This, it point out, is $445,000,000 more than was spent for them last year and $739,000,000, (or more than 100 per cent), more than was spent for them in 1940.

Every item of appropriation in this section of the budget is an increase over the amount spent in 1945 it is noted. Five departments and one agency ask for $370,000,000 of the increase over 1945. These are the federal Security agency, with an increase from $83,000,000 in 1945 to $132,000,000 for next year; the Agriculture department, exclusive of aids to agriculture, from $160,000,000; the Commerce department, from $82,000,000 to $165000,000; the Interior department, from $80,000,000 to $118,000,000; the Labor department, from $10,000,000 to $99,000,000 and the State department, from $52,000,000 to $127,000,000.

Federal non-war agency employment has also continued to jump, the council reports, there having been an increase of 105,401 in December, 34,000 in January and an additional increase in February.

The council and others opposing a seventeenth year of federal deficit spending contend that Congress can reduce the budget item of $1,565,000,000 for general government by approximately $445,000,000. If it can be done without impairing governmental operations, it should by all means be done, if there is anything in the assertion that the government is actually moving to avert inflation. Bureaucracy, such as has been built up in Washington, is insatiable in its spending demands, and it is high time that it be reasonably curbed.

Citations by OWMR Are Not Impressive

THE OFFICE OF WAR MOBILIZATION AND RECONVERSION continues to insist that civilian production has reached an all-peacetime record, but the American public just as persistently continues to ask what has become of all these things that are being turned out with such a lavish hand. It is an eminently proper question and, in spite of all the statistics in the world, it will not be adequately answered until it is possible once again for people to go into stores and obtain the goods they need so badly.

Figures are all right in their place, but they are a poor substitute for new automobiles, radios, washing machines, shirts, stockings and a host of other commodities still in short supply. They cannot be ridden in, they cannot be eaten, clothes cannot be washed or ironed in them, they cannot be worn. To be fed them so constantly is, in fact, a pure and simple aggravation.

Perhaps the OWMR would be better advised if it remained silent on this subject for a time. It may be granted that the demand for civilian goods is extremely heavy and that consequently most items are snapped up the minute they are offered for sale. But so long as stores nad showrooms have "for display only" signs on much of their merchandise, the average citizen is not in the least impressed by recurring statements of record production.

He can hardly be blamed, indeed, if he thinks that it is merely another of those government jokes.

Protests about Bomb Tests Are Heeded

CONGRESS, it appears, has been hearing from the public with regard to the number of targets to be used in the Bikini atom bomb experiments and is taking some heed thereof. Legislation recommended to the Senate by its Naval committee recommends that a total of seventy-four target vessels, including only thirty-three American fighting ships and three former enemy craft, will be used.

That is a considerable reduction from the earlier reports of the number of vessels, particularly warships, that were planned to be used.

The committee reported the bill to the Senate by unanimous vote after hearing Vice Adm. W. H. P. Blandy, task force chief, and members of his staff testify on the need for the experiment in determining future naval and military design, tactics and strategy. It also had before it a letter from Secretary Forrestal stating that all the American combatant target ships had been declared surplus with the exception of the aircraft carrier Independence and five submarines.

Forrestall said there had been "considerable misunderstanding" in the minds of a number of people, including some senators, that a large number of valuable naval ships would be destroyed, which, he declared, "is not at all the case." The fact, however, that action was taken to scale down the number of target vessels does not seem to bear out that assertion of misunderstanding, since the objections filed were numerous and were directed to unnecessary destruction.

The bomb tests are important because of their bearing on future naval and military plans, but they should not be unnecessarily extravagant.

Peas Worth While For the Gardener

BY THIS TIME the gardener who has things well in hand can feast his gaze on long rows of peas showing well above the ground. If so, he has reason to contemplate the special virtues of this particular crop and to be thankful that he has a good supply coming along.

There are a number of things to be said in praise of peas. For one thing, they go in early when there is no great press of work. The gardener can concentrate on getting just enough ground ready to supply the peas he wants—though of course he can also worry about such things as spinach if he insists on loading himself up to the limit.

For another, peas are not much trouble despite those who insist they are hard to raise. If they are put in early, they are pretty certain to bear bountifully two months later. The secret is to get them in early. Some people trench them, but that is not absolutely necessary. And the dwarf varieties will do well even if they are not trained up.

They should have reasonably good soil and sometimes they need protection against pests but on the whole peas are about as easy to bring along, if they are planted at the right time, as anything on the list. Weeding is not much of a problem early in the season, and if other crops produce more per square foot of ground, they are not as good eating.

Peas fresh from the garden, with butter if it can be procured or even without, are enough to restore any amateur's enthusiasm when it falters under the hot sun of late May or early June.

The Glory of God Is Again Proclaimed

THE JOYOUS FESTIVAL OF EASTER is at hand. Christ is risen. The foretelling of the prophets is proved. It is the day that Mary went early to the tomb, when it was yet dark, as is read in St. John, the twentieth chapter, and saw that the stone had been taken away from the sepulchre, and reported to those that loved Jesus that the Lord was gone and they looked and believed.

All the promise of Christian teaching is in the event which is celebrated on Easter. The faithful have followed the travail of Christ through the season of Lent. They have searched within themselves, and they have weighed themselves according as is the counsel and teaching. They have cast out of their thoughts and out of their ways of life that which is evil, and they have met according to their light and their strength the test of Christian fortitude.

And now is come the emerging from the shadows. The hour of Caesar is thrust back into the abyss of untruth. The wrong way is left and closed. The suffering of martyrdom for the rightness of cause and the true light of brotherhood and oneness in the sight of God is rewarded. The Glory of God is once again proclaimed, once again in the procession of centuries since men found in the revelation a creed of striving and rising that satisfied the noblest yearnings and aspirations.

Iran Censorship Is Peace Blighter, Lawrence Says

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, April 19—Iran, which has needed the help of world opinion to keep Russia from grabbing her resouces, now suddenly clamps a censoship on all news dispatches sent from that country. Theoretically Iran no longer needs the help of world opinion.

This is incredible. And, of course, nobody in the department of State which made public the facts about the censorship believes for one moment that this step was taken by Iran of her own free will.

Here is a situation which is far more dangerous to world peace than the Spanish poblem or even the question of keeping Russian troops on the soil of Iran. For if a nation can be blacked out by the dominating influence of a neighboring government, the United Nations might as well confess failure.

Conscience Appeal Fundamental

The whole theory behind the charter adoped in San Francisco is that an appeal can and should be made to the conscience of countries which are inclined to choose the path of aggression. Russia has exhibited tendencies toward aggression, though the polite word to use nowadays is "expansion."

Up to now the question before the United Nations Security Council was whether Iran was being coerced into an agreement on oil concessions as the price of withdrawing Russian troops. Now, however, a greater and much more menacing form of coercion has appeared—the imposition, probably at the behest of Russia, of a censorship such as Moscow often imposes.

The principle of censorship is well understood in wartime but it has absolutely no justification in time of peace. The very fact that Iran had to impose the censorship indicates that the Russians are afraid to let the truth come out about what is happening. Fear of the truth about the misbehavior of major powers in their relations with other countries is the usual reason for censorship in peacetime.

News Freedom Heralded

The United Nations has proclaimed its interest in "freedom of information." This was one of the "Four Freedoms" extolled by the late President Roosevelt and inscribed on many a banner that was unfurled during the war to encourage American boys to give their lives for that cause.

What will the United Nations Security Council do about it? Should it not ask the government of Iran for an explanation and ask for testimony from newspapers in Iran? Should not the representatives of the press and government of Iran be brought before the council in an inquiry? As to what were the forces or influences behind this sudden use of censorship powers, especially as they relate to foreign correspondents?

If the Security Council is authorized to investigate "any situation" which could conceivably endanger the peace of the world, then what has just occurred in Iran is pertinent. The form of censorship imposed is one of the most unreasonable ever devised. Correspondents are not even permitted to see what is deleted or to learn whether their dispatches have been suppressed. The American embassy at Teheran cabled to the department of State the facts and indicated the seriousness of the development.

Subject for Agenda

The American delegate to the United Nations conference has the right to ask that the subject be put on the agenda of the Security Council for further investigation. Once a small country subject to foreign influences loses its autonomy, the United Nations has the right to inquire whether the nation back of the move has an aggressive purpose. The forcing of a censorship on a weak neighbor is an incipient form of aggression.

The United Nations charter was designed to nip aggression in the bud before it could flourish. If the League of Nations could have sensed the dangers in Hitler's totalitarianism as early as 1934 and 1935 and if the powers had acted in concert then, there might never have been an opportunity for the Nazis to gather the raw materials they needed to build their armament and World War II might have been prevented. The United Nations has before it the pattern of totalitarianism which led to aggression before. The abolition of the Four Freedoms can be readily regarded as the beginning of trouble in any area of the world.

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Roosevelt's Old Friend and Opponent, Lewis Douglas, May Head World Bank

WASHINGTON, April 19, — For some time a hot behind-the-scenes row has been raging over the person of charming, vivacious Lew Douglas, who has held more jobs in government than anyone else in Washington, and who is now up for appointment as head of the new world bank.

This bank, to be created under Bretton Woods, will be about the most powerful economic force in the world. It will have the power to develop or retard countries. It can make or prevent revolutions. It will become, for smaller countries, what the small-town banker is to the corner grocer.

The man so far slated for this important job enjoys the unique distinction of being the only man who could outcharm Franklin Roosevelt. Douglas rowed with Roosevelt, resigned as his director of the budget, organized the "Independent Democrats," did his best to defeat Roosevelt in 1940. Yet he was always able to win his way back into FDR's good graces.

Friends said Douglas fascinated the late president because he was the only man who had a better technique as a charmer.

Once, during the 1943 Churchill-Roosevelt conference in Quebec, FDR asked Douglas to fly up from Washington and serve as special charm disseminator. Gen. Marshall and Adm. King were rowing with Sir Allan Brooke and the British general staff over Far Eastern strategy, so Douglas was asked to pour oil on the troubled waters. He did.

Canadian Background

A lot of people have had their doubts as to whether Lew is a Republican or a Democrat, and some friends chide him as to whether his family is American or Canadian. He has operated successfully in both parties and both countries.

Lew's grandfather was a Scottish professor of geology who migrated to Arizona and established the beginnings of the Phelps-Dodge copper millions. Douglas, Arizona, is named for the family.

Lew's grandfather kept his citizenship, even sending his wife back to Canada whenever a child was expected, so that it, too, would be a Canadian. Of his two sons, Walter Douglas kept his Canadian citizenchip to the end, but Lew's father, Jimmy Douglas, didn't.

He became an American citizen after he fell in love with Josephine Williams, daughter of a crusty Arizona miner, "Don Looey" Williams, who would not let his child be married to a "foreigner." Later, however, Lew's father became such a rabid Roosevelt-hater that he left Arizona and went back to Canada to spend the rest of his life as far from the New Deal as possible.

Some years before this, however, Lew Douglas had come to Congress in 1927 as a Democrat at the sprightly age of 33, when Congress was packed with dignified Republicans of the conservative Coolidge era. He remained six years, got to know Franklin Roosevelt as governor of New York, campaigned for him, and resigned from Congress to become FDR's director of the budget.

Rows with Roosevelt

Less than a year later, the two were in vigorous disagreement, chiefly over the public works and spending programs. FDR believed the government had to spend to win back employment. Douglas was for a balanced budget. Finally he resigned.

Lew then went up to Canada for a while as vice chancellor of McGill university, later became head of the giant Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, did his best to elect Wendell Willkie, was privately mentioned by J. P. Morgan partners as Republican candidate for president, and then, with the war on, he and Roosevelt suddenly kissed and made up.

Douglas became head of the War Shipping Administration, where he cut red tape, rowed with the army, and did a reasonably good job.

At one time, Roosevelt nearly appointed Douglas to be undersecretary of state. This was when FDR made the worst foreign relations mistake of his many long years by ousting his best State department executive, Sumner Welles. However, Douglas was considered too close to Wall street, and Ed Stettinius got the job instead.

Later, Lew turned up mysteriously in Germany, where he served as a War department adviser and where he persuaded his brother-in-law, Assistant Secretary of War McCloy, to hold up Truman's "tough peace" directive 1067 for Germany.

Douglas was one of those who believed that Germany should be built up as a buffer state against Russia; and that was where he incurred the opposition of Henry Morgenthau. Henry has now written to Truman warning that Douglas, as head of the world bank, would be a tragic mistake.

Despite the fact that everyone likes Lew personally, there is violent opposition to his policies and his off- again-on-again method of ambling through life.

However, Secretary of the Treasury Vinson is for him, so are the British, and, what with strong Wall street support, he will probably get the job.

Merry-Go-Round

If Republican Sen. Joe Ball, of Minnesota, will drop round to the office of his Democratic colleague, Sen. Claude Pepper, of Florida, he will find a present awaiting him in the form of an old-fashioned dinner pail....What happened was that Pepper ribbed the Republicans in a speech on the minimum wage bill, reminding them that the Grand Old Party had made the full dinner pail their slogan, yet voted against the minimum wage bill. A Minnesota voter immediately sent Pepper a dinner pail, saying that perhaps Joe Ball had never seen one and didn't know the meaning of it. Pepper is waiting for a chance to make the presentation....Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., may have been an indirect target of Truman's criticism when he panned the navy for propagandizing against the merger ....United States Ambassador "Beetle" Smith has cabled the State department that the Russians have eased press censorship just a little ....The Atomic committee headed by able Sen. Brien McMahon of Connecticut, finally came through with a pretty good atomic control bill. One trouble was that Brien is a freshman senator, and old-timers resented his being appointed to so important a chairmanship. However, he did a good job and all's well that ends well.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

In order to aid UNNRA in its efforts to feed Europe we should all try to conserve food these days. And to help the worthy cause along, I started a vegetable garden in my back-yard last week. Yes sir, I'm sure glad I saved my Hoover buttons.

I bought the very best kind of seed and followed all instructions... but, at first, all that came up were gophers....Then I found out you're supposed to take the seeds out of those little paper bags.

Raising vegetables certainly has its problems. The neighbor's chickens ate my seeds as fast as I planted them. I don't know if it did them any harm, but my neighbor is complaining that his hens now lay Spanish omelets. Then I tried putting those vitamins in the soil, but I must have used too much of the stuff....every time my back is turned, a tomato runs off with my cabbage.

All my vegetables are coming up now, and today I ate my first home-grown radish. The soil in California is really remarkable...that radish is still coming up!

My garden is now the talk of all Hollywood .... everywhere you go you hear people talking about "the way Hope has gone to seed!"

Seriously though, we should do our best to conserve food. It's a great feeling to know you're doing your share to help others....it may give you a swelled head...but never a swelled middle.

Lack of Control On Wages Is Seen Back of OPA Bill

By MARK SULLIVAN

The House this week passed amendments to the Price Control bill, greatly reducing its power and scope. Why? What moved the members who took this step? And what caused the obvious spirit of indignation in which they acted?

The reasons are several. A main one is to be found in the question asked by a member in the debate, "What has OPA [he Office of Price Administration] done to prevent wage raises?" And the same answer can be found in a significant omission from the House's reductions of OPA's power. The House did not touch OPA's authority to control rents—on the contrary it rejected by more than 2-to-1 vote a proposal to that effect. The significance that that most rents are not affected by wage raises.

Viewed as a Whole

The House was looking not only at OPA but at the administration as a whole. It saw the administration encouraging wage raises. It knew these wage-raises cause increase of prices. But at the same time it saw the administration saying price increases must be prevented. The illogic of that—many members used words more colloquial than "illogic"—moved the House. As Representative Smith, of Ohio, put it—he was more calm than some others: "Control of prices is retained; wage control is not . . . Are the working people now going to be deceived into believing prices of commodities can be controlled, without also controlling wages?"

The House sees, more close at hand than is possible for much of the public, the whole course of the administration since V-J day. The essential steps of it have been:

The administration encouraged wage raises. In one case, steel, President Truman personally prescribed the amount of the raise.

The wage raises led to price increases. In case after case—including steel, the packing industry, automobiles, after wage raises, and because of them, the administration, including OPA directly, decreed increases of prices, and said they were doing so because of the wage raises.

Wage Demands Multiply

After wage raises were granted to one labor union or leader, other leaders demanded the same or more. This is the present case of Mr. John L. Lewis and his United Mine Workers, and other cases present and recent. To enforce the demands, strikes are called. Because of the strikes, production of goods is interrupted, in widely ramifying ways. Today, because lack of coal interrupts production of steel, and because lack of steel interrupts production of automobiles, much of the Ford plant is closed, as much as would produce 5,000 cars per week.

The interruption of production is peculiarly fatal. For the one real preventive of increases in prices, and dangerous inflation, and the one necessity for taking the country to a wholesome and normal condition, is abundant production of goods.

All this the House sees and sees it as a consequence of the administration's policy. At the same time the House sees a flood of propaganda from the administration, especially from OPA itself, to the effect that any who would change OPA would be responsible for inflation. The House sees this propaganda from OPA supplemented from CIO, which demands support for price control. It sees CIO as a beneficiary of the administration's policy of raising wages, but demanding power for OPA to prevent price increases which wage raises start in motion. And the House is aware of the political relation beteween CIO and the Administration.

Other Reasons Also

This was largely responsible for the spirit of indignation that accompanied the House's reduction of OPA's score and power. There were other reasons including conviction on the part of thoughtful members that, since the wage raises have been made, and the consequences of them are present, the best way to bring about full production of goods, which is the one imperative need, would be to permit more elasticity about price increases.

What would be the best course now, so far as it would be achievable after what has happened, would be to go back toward what would have been the best course in the beginning. That, as recommended by Mr. Bernard M. Baruch and many others, would have been to treat wages and prices, and other factors, the same; to freeze wages and prices at the levels they then had, and keep them frozen until full production should be achieved, wage-raises could be made without damage.

Proof Of Immortality

One of the reasons why I so happily welcome each Springtime is that it is such a proof of immortality. The dead of Winter arising to newness of life. That is why Easter is such a beautiful remembrance and spiritual festival.

Even the songsters welcome this season of the year, and manifest it by the songs and love making. Beauty abounds in the valleys, and mountain sides as well, and every roadside is a trail to the undiscovered. How glorious every touch of wind, how refreshing every shower that waters the thirsty earth. The longer days, with their whitened light, beacon us to do more and be more.

All the earth is forever recreating. Nature doesn't let an atom go to waste. There are continuous formations, and reformations, as though the Creator put thought into the very substance of the composition of the land itself. And how it responds!

Every morning I look out from my bedroom and library window to watch the progress of this miraculous unfolding. And every note from the throat of a bird is an echo from my heart. I scatter pieces of string about the yard to help the builders of nests, and welcome those who return to their former Springtimes. They emphasize the continuousness of things. They sing their return in thankful song.

I love the small of the Springtime earth. Every flower that buds and blooms is a poem on immortality. The trees begin to breathe anew. And before one realizes, their shade and cool protection, as well as beauty, garment yards, fields, and streams. Before leaving the Southland I was daily serenaded by those shy, yet friendly, moking birds. Now I have the robins, the thrushes, and the tiny wrens to entertain me. I wish the songs of some of these birds could reach the hearts of those who live to plot and destroy.

This beautiful earth is God's tonic for man. How little he partakes of its life-giving and life-extending substance. Every sunrise is a doxology, and every sunset a benediction!

Federal Spenders Are Still at It

CONTINUING its campaign for federal economy, the Maryland Public Expenditures Council is directing attention to the fact that seventeen departments and agencies classified as general government in the federal budget are asking for appropriations totaling $1,565,000,000 for next year. This, it point out, is $445,000,000 more than was spent for them last year and $739,000,000, (or more than 100 per cent), more than was spent for them in 1940.

Every item of appropriation in this section of the budget is an increase over the amount spent in 1945 it is noted. Five departments and one agency ask for $370,000,000 of the increase over 1945. These are the federal Security agency, with an increase from $83,000,000 in 1945 to $132,000,000 for next year; the Agriculture department, exclusive of aids to agriculture, from $160,000,000; the Commerce department, from $82,000,000 to $165000,000; the Interior department, from $80,000,000 to $118,000,000; the Labor department, from $10,000,000 to $99,000,000 and the State department, from $52,000,000 to $127,000,000.

Federal non-war agency employment has also continued to jump, the council reports, there having been an increase of 105,401 in December, 34,000 in January and an additional increase in February.

The council and others opposing a seventeenth year of federal deficit spending contend that Congress can reduce the budget item of $1,565,000,000 for general government by approximately $445,000,000. If it can be done without impairing governmental operations, it should by all means be done, if there ir anything in the assertion that the government is actually moving to avert inflation. Bureaucracy, such as has been built up in Washington, is insatiable in its spending demands, and it is high time that it be reasonably curbed.

Citations by OWMR Are Not Impressive

THE OFFICE OF WAR MOBILIZATION AND RECONVERSION continues to insist that civilian production has reached an all-peacetime record, but the American public just as persistently continues to ask what has become of all these things that are being turned out with such a lavish hand. It is an eminently proper question and, in spite of all the statistics in the world, it will not be adequately answered until it is possible once again for people to go into stores and obtain the goods they need so badly.

Figures are all right in their place, but they are a poor substitute for new automobiles, radios, washing machines, shirts, stockings and a host of other commodities still in short supply. They cannot be ridden in, they cannot be eaten, clothes cannot be washed or ironed in them, they cannot be worn. To be fed them so constantly is, in fact, a pure and simple aggravation.

Perhaps the OWMR would be better advised if it remained silent on this subject for a time. It may be granted that the demand for civilian goods is extremely heavy and that consequently most items are snapped up the minute they are offered for sale. But so long as stores nad showrooms have "for display only" signs on much of their merchandise, the average citizen is not in the least impressed by recurring statements of record production.

He can hardly be blamed, indeed, if he thinks that it is merely another of those government jokes.

Protests about Bomb Tests Are Heeded

CONGRESS, it appears, has been hearing from the public with regard to the number of targets to be used in the Bikini atom bomb experiments and is taking some heed thereof. Legislation recommended to the Senate by its Naval committee recommends that a total of seventy-four target vessels, including only thirty-three American fighting ships and three former enemy craft, will be used.

That is a considerable reduction from the earlier reports of the number of vessels, particularly warships, that were planned to be used.

The committee reported the bill to the Senate by unanimous vote after hearing Vice Adm. W. H. P. Blandy, task force chief, and members of his staff testify on the need for the experiment in determining future naval and military design, tactics and strategy. It also had before it a letter from Secretary Forrestal stating that all the American combatant target ships had been declared surplus with the exception of the aircraft carrier Independence and five submarines.

Forrestall said there had been "considerable misunderstanding" in the minds of a number of people, including some senators, that a large number of valuable naval ships would be destroyed, which, he declared, "is not at all the case." The fact, however, that action was taken to scale down the number of target vessels does not seem to bear out that assertion of misunderstanding, since the objections filed were numerous and were directed to unnecessary destruction.

The bomb tests are important because of their bearing on future naval and military plans, but they should not be unnecessarily extravagant.

Peas Worth While For the Gardener

BY THIS TIME the gardener who has things well in hand can feast his gaze on long rows of peas showing well above the ground. If so, he has reason to contemplate the special virtues of this particular crop and to be thankful that he has a good supply coming along.

There are a number of things to be said in praise of peas. For one thing, they go in early when there is no great press of work. The gardener can concentrate on getting just enough ground ready to supply the peas he wants—though of course he can also worry about such things as spinach if he insists on loading himself up to the limit.

For another, peas are not much trouble despite those who insist they are hard to raise. If they are put in early, they are pretty certain to bear bountifully two months later. The secret is to get them in early. Some people trench them, but that is not absolutely necessary. And the dwarf varieties will do well even if they are not trained up.

They should have reasonably good soil and sometimes they need protection against pests but on the whole peas are about as easy to bring along, if they are planted at the right time, as anything on the list. Weeding is not much of a problem early in the season, and if other crops produce more per square foot of ground, they are not as good eating.

Peas fresh from the garden, with butter if it can be procured or even without, are enough to restore any amateur's enthusiasm when it falters under the hot sun of late May or early June.

The Glory of God Is Again Proclaimed

THE JOYOUS FESTIVAL OF EASTER is at hand. Christ is risen. The foretelling of the prophets is proved. It is the day that Mary went early to the tomb, when it was yet dark, as is read in St. John, the twentieth chapter, and saw that the stone had been taken away from the sepulchre, and reported to those that loved Jesus that the Lord was gone and they looked and believed.

All the promise of Christian teaching is in the event which is celebrated on Easter. The faithful have followed the travail of Christ through the season of Lent. They have searched within themselves, and they have weighed themselves according as is the counsel and teaching. They have cast out of their thoughts and out of their ways of life that which is evil, and they have met according to their light and their strength the test of Christian fortitude.

And now is come the emerging from the shadows. The hour of Caesar is thrust back into the abyss of untruth. The wrong way is left and closed. The suffering of martyrdom for the rightness of cause and the true light of brotherhood and oneness in the sight of God is rewarded. The Glory of God is once again proclaimed, once again in the procession of centuries since men found in the revelation a creed of striving and rising that satisfied the noblest yearnings and aspirations.

Iran Censorship Is Peace Blighter, Lawrence Says

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, April 19—Iran, which has needed the help of world opinion to keep Russia from grabbing her resouces, now suddenly clamps a censoship on all news dispatches sent from that country. Theoretically Iran no longer needs the help of world opinion.

This is incredible. And, of course, nobody in the department of State which made public the facts about the censorship believes for one moment that this step was taken by Iran of her own free will.

Here is a situation which is far more dangerous to world peace than the Spanish poblem or even the question of keeping Russian troops on the soil of Iran. For if a nation can be blacked out by the dominating influence of a neighboring government, the United Nations might as well confess failure.

Conscience Appeal Fundamental

The whole theory behind the charter adoped in San Francisco is that an appeal can and should be made to the conscience of countries which are inclined to choose the path of aggression. Russia has exhibited tendencies toward aggression, though the polite word to use nowadays is "expansion."

Up to now the question before the United Nations Security Council was whether Iran was being coerced into an agreement on oil concessions as the price of withdrawing Russian troops. Now, however, a greater and much more menacing form of coercion has appeared—the imposition, probably at the behest of Russia, of a censorship such as Moscow often imposes.

The principle of censorship is well understood in wartime but it has absolutely no justification in time of peace. The very fact that Iran had to impose the censorship indicates that the Russians are afraid to let the truth come out about what is happening. Fear of the truth about the misbehavior of major powers in their relations with other countries is the usual reason for censorship in peacetime.

News Freedom Heralded

The United Nations has proclaimed its interest in "freedom of information." This was one of the "Four Freedoms" extolled by the late President Roosevelt and inscribed on many a banner that was unfurled during the war to encourage American boys to give their lives for that cause.

What will the United Nations Security Council do about it? Should it not ask the government of Iran for an explanation and ask for testimony from newspapers in Iran? Should not the representatives of the press and government of Iran be brought before the council in an inquiry? As to what were the forces or influences behind this sudden use of censorship powers, especially as they relate to foreign correspondents?

If the Security Council is authorized to investigate "any situation" which could conceivably endanger the peace of the world, then what has just occurred in Iran is pertinent. The form of censorship imposed is one of the most unreasonable ever devised. Correspondents are not even permitted to see what is deleted or to learn whether their dispatches have been suppressed. The American embassy at Teheran cabled to the department of State the facts and indicated the seriousness of the development.

Subject for Agenda

The American delegate to the United Nations conference has the right to ask that the subject be put on the agenda of the Security Council for further investigation. Once a small country subject to foreign influences loses its autonomy, the United Nations has the right to inquire whether the nation back of the move has an aggressive purpose. The forcing of a censorship on a weak neighbor is an incipient form of aggression.

The United Nations charter was designed to nip aggression in the bud before it could flourish. If the League of Nations could have sensed the dangers in Hitler's totalitarianism as early as 1934 and 1935 and if the powers had acted in concert then, there might never have been an opportunity for the Nazis to gather the raw materials they needed to build their armament and World War II might have been prevented. The United Nations has before it the pattern of totalitarianism which led to aggression before. The abolition of the Four Freedoms can be readily regarded as the beginning of trouble in any area of the world.

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Roosevelt's Old Friend and Opponent, Lewis Douglas, May Head World Bank

WASHINGTON, April 19. — For some time a hot behind-the-scenes row has been raging over the person of charming, vivacious Lew Douglas, who has held more jobs in government than anyone else in Washington, and who is now up for appointment as head of the new world bank.

This bank, to be created under Bretton Woods, will be about the most powerful economic force in the world. It will have the power to develop or retard countries. It can make or prevent revolutions. It will become, for smaller countries, what the small-town banker is to the corner grocer.

The man so far slated for this important job enjoys the unique distinction of being the only man who could outcharm Franklin Roosevelt. Douglas rowed with Roosevelt, resigned as his director of the budget, organized the "Independent Democrats," did his best to defeat Roosevelt in 1940. Yet he was always able to win his way back into FDR's good graces.

Friends said Douglas fascinated the late president because he was the only man who had a better technique as a charmer.

Once, during the 1943 Churchill-Roosevelt conference in Quebec, FDR asked Douglas to fly up from Washington and serve as special charm disseminator. Gen. Marshall and Adm. King were rowing with Sir Allan Brooke and the British general staff over Far Eastern strategy, so Douglas was asked to pour oil on the troubled waters. He did.

Canadian Background

A lot of people have had their doubts as to whether Lew is a Republican or a Democrat, and some friends chide him as to whether his family is American or Canadian. He has operated successfully in both parties and both countries.

Lew's grandfather was a Scottish professor of geology who migrated to Arizona and established the beginnings of the Phelps-Dodge copper millions. Douglas, Arizona, is named for the family.

Lew's grandfather kept his citizenship, even sending his wife back to Canada whenever a child was expected, so that it, too, would be a Canadian. Of his two sons, Walter Douglas kept his Canadian citizenship to the end, but Lew's father, Jimmy Douglas, didn't.

He became an American citizen after he fell in love with Josephine Williams, daughter of a crusty Arizona miner, "Don Looey" Williams, who would not let his child be married to a "foreigner." Later, however, Lew's father became such a rabid Roosevelt-hater that he left Arizona and went back to Canada to spend the rest of his life as far from the New Deal as possible.

Some years before this, however, Lew Douglas had come to Congress in 1927 as a Democrat at the sprightly age of 33, when Congress was packed with dignified Republicans of the conservative Coolidge era. He remained six years, got to know Franklin Roosevelt as governor of New York, campaigned for him, and resigned from Congress to become FDR's director of the budget.

Rows with Roosevelt

Less than a year later, the two were in vigorous disagreement, chiefly over the public works and spending programs. FDR believed the government had to spend to win back employment. Douglas was for a balanced budget. Finally he resigned.

Lew then went up to Canada for a while as vice chancellor of McGill university, later became head of the giant Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, did his best to elect Wendell Willkie, was privately mentioned by J. P. Morgan partners as Republican candidate for president, and then, with the war on, he and Roosevelt suddenly kissed and made up.

Douglas became head of the War Shipping Administration, where he cut red tape, rowed with the army, and did a reasonably good job.

At one time, Roosevelt nearly appointed Douglas to be undersecretary of state. This was when FDR made the worst foreign relations mistake of his many long years by ousting his best State department executive, Sumner Welles. However, Douglas was considered too close to Wall street, and Ed Stettinius got the job instead.

Later, Lew turned up mysteriously in Germany, where he served as a War department adviser and where he persuaded his brother-in-law, Assistant Secretary of War McCloy, to hold up Truman's "tough peace" directive 1067 for Germany.

Douglas was one of those who believed that Germany should be built up as a buffer state against Russia; and that was where he incurred the opposition of Henry Morgenthau. Henry has now written to Truman warning that Douglas, as head of the world bank, would be a tragic mistake.

Despite the fact that everyone likes Lew personally, there is violent opposition to his policies and his off- again-on-again method of ambling through life.

However, Secretary of the Treasury Vinson is for him, so are the British, and, what with strong Wall street support, he will probably get the job.

Merry-Go-Round

If Republican Sen. Joe Ball, of Minnesota, will drop round to the office of his Democratic colleague, Sen. Claude Pepper, of Florida, he will find a present awaiting him in the form of an old-fashioned dinner pail....What happened was that Pepper ribbed the Republicans in a speech on the minimum wage bill, reminding them that the Grand Old Party had made the full dinner pail their slogan, yet voted against the minimum wage bill. A Minnesota voter immediately sent Pepper a dinner pail, saying that perhaps Joe Ball had never seen one and didn't know the meaning of it. Pepper is waiting for a chance to make the presentation....Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., may have been an indirect target of Truman's criticism when he panned the navy for propagandizing against the merger ....United States Ambassador "Beetle" Smith has cabled the State department that the Russians have eased press censorship just a little ....The Atomic committee headed by able Sen. Brien McMahon of Connecticut, finally came through with a pretty good atomic control bill. One trouble was that Brien is a freshman senator, and old-timers resented his being appointed to so important a chairmanship. However, he did a good job and all's well that ends well.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

In order to aid UNNRA in its efforts to feed Europe we should all try to conserve food these days. And to help the worthy cause along, I started a vegetable garden in my back-yard last week. Yes sir, I'm sure glad I saved my Hoover buttons.

I bought the very best kind of seed and followed all instructions... but, at first, all that came up were gophers....Then I found out you're supposed to take the seeds out of those little paper bags.

Raising vegetables certainly has its problems. The neighbor's chickens ate my seeds as fast as I planted them. I don't know if it did them any harm, but my neighbor is complaining that his hens now lay Spanish omelets. Then I tried putting those vitamins in the soil, but I must have used too much of the stuff....every time my back is turned, a tomato runs off with my cabbage.

All my vegetables are coming up now, and today I ate my first home-grown radish. The soil in California is really remarkable...that radish is still coming up!

My garden is now the talk of all Hollywood .... everywhere you go you hear people talking about "the way Hope has gone to seed!"

Seriously though, we should do our best to conserve food. It's a great feeling to know you're doing your share to help others....it may give you a swelled head...but never a swelled middle.

Whales, we read, are now being hunted down and slain by means of radar and rockets. This puts the big cetaceans in the class of those who lost the war.

Squirrels chewed through a Canadian telephone wire and set a building on fire. This is the first we've heard of a nut shortage.

There are some things the war hasn't changed. Nearly all the sports writers are again picking the New York Yankees.

War veterans are being urged to go in for clam farming. One advantage being, of course, the clams never talk back to their owners.

Gold continues to appreciate — according to a news item. And we continue to appreciate it, too—more and more.

That Connecticut man who kayoed a wasp with a slingshot should next try going after those pesky mosquitoes with a bean shooter.

By MARK SULLIVAN

The House this week passed amendments to the Price Control bill, greatly reducing its power and scope. Why? What moved the members who took this step? And what caused the obvious spirit of indignation in which they acted?

The reasons are several. A main one is to be found in the question asked by a member in the debate, "What has OPA [he Office of Price Administration] done to prevent wage raises?" And the same answer can be found in a significant omission from the House's reductions of OPA's power. The House did not touch OPA's authority to control rents—on the contrary it rejected by more than 2-to-1 vote a proposal to that effect. The significance that that most rents are not affected by wage raises.

Viewed as a Whole

The House was looking not only at OPA but at the administration as a whole. It saw the administration encouraging wage raises. It knew these wage-raises cause increase of prices. But at the same time it saw the administration saying price increases must be prevented. The illogic of that—many members used words more colloquial than "illogic"—moved the House. As Representative Smith, of Ohio, put it—he was more calm than some others: "Control of prices is retained; wage control is not . . . Are the working people now going to be deceived into believing prices of commodities can be controlled, without also controlling wages?"

The House sees, more close at hand than is possible for much of the public, the whole course of the administration since V-J day. The essential steps of it have been:

The administration encouraged wage raises. In one case, steel, President Truman personally prescribed the amount of the raise.

The wage raises led to price increases. In case after case—including steel, the packing industry, automobiles, after wage raises, and because of them, the administration, including OPA directly, decreed increases of prices, and said they were doing so because of the wage raises.

Wage Demands Multiply

After wage raises were granted to one labor union or leader, other leaders demanded the same or more. This is the present case of Mr. John L. Lewis and his United Mine Workers, and other cases present and recent. To enforce the demands, strikes are called. Because of the strikes, production of goods is interrupted, in widely ramifying ways. Today, because lack of coal interrupts production of steel, and because lack of steel interrupts production of automobiles, much of the Ford plant is closed, as much as would produce 5,000 cars per week.

The interruption of production is peculiarly fatal. For the one real preventive of increases in prices, and dangerous inflation, and the one necessity for taking the country to a wholesome and normal condition, is abundant production of goods.

All this the House sees and sees it as a consequence of the administration's policy. At the same time the House sees a flood of propaganda from the administration, especially from OPA itself, to the effect that any who would change OPA would be responsible for inflation. The House sees this propaganda from OPA supplemented from CIO, which demands support for price control. It sees CIO as a beneficiary of the administration's policy of raising wages, but demanding power for OPA to prevent price increases which wage raises start in motion. And the House is aware of the political relation beteween CIO and the Administration.

Other Reasons Also

This was largely responsible for the spirit of indignation that accompanied the House's reduction of OPA's score and power. There were other reasons including conviction on the part of thoughtful members that, since the wage raises have been made, and the consequences of them are present, the best way to bring about full production of goods, which is the one imperative need, would be to permit more elasticity about price increases.

What would be the best course now, so far as it would be achievable after what has happened, would be to go back toward what would have been the best course in the beginning. That, as recommended by Mr. Bernard M. Baruch and many others, would have been to treat wages and prices, and other factors, the same; to freeze wages and prices at the levels they then had, and keep them frozen until full production should be achieved, wage-raises could be made without damage.

Proof Of Immortality

One of the reasons why I so happily welcome each Springtime is that it is such a proof of immortality. The dead of Winter arising to newness of life. That is why Easter is such a beautiful remembrance and spiritual festival.

Even the songsters welcome this season of the year, and manifest it by the songs and love making. Beauty abounds in the valleys, and mountain sides as well, and every roadside is a trail to the undiscovered. How glorious every touch of wind, how refreshing every shower that waters the thirsty earth. The longer days, with their whitened light, beacon us to do more and be more.

All the earth is forever recreating. Nature doesn't let an atom go to waste. There are continuous formations, and reformations, as though the Creator put thought into the very substance of the composition of the land itself. And how it responds!

Every morning I look out from my bedroom and library window to watch the progress of this miraculous unfolding. And every note from the throat of a bird is an echo from my heart. I scatter pieces of string about the yard to help the builders of nests, and welcome those who return to their former Springtimes. They emphasize the continuousness of things. They sing their return in thankful song.

I love the small of the Springtime earth. Every flower that buds and blooms is a poem on immortality. The trees begin to breathe anew. And before one realizes, their shade and cool protection, as well as beauty, garment yards, fields, and streams. Before leaving the Southland I was daily serenaded by those shy, yet friendly, moking birds. Now I have the robins, the thrushes, and the tiny wrens to entertain me. I wish the songs of some of these birds could reach the hearts of those who live to plot and destroy.

This beautiful earth is God's tonic for man. How little he partakes of its life-giving and life-extending substance. Every sunrise is a doxology, and every sunset a benediction!

Homemakers Chorus To Hold Hymn Festival

Twelve Groups Are Participating in Annual Musical Program

The Homemakers Chorus, one of the groups of the Allegany County Council of Homemakers Clubs, will sponsor, for the first time, a "Hymn Festival." It will be held at 3 o'clock April 28, in the auditorium of Allegany high school, and is open to the public.

Since its organization in 1932, the chorus has held annual musical programs of different types. They have included a cantata, a "Shawl Pageant," a "Colonial Pageant," a "Spring Festival," and a "Portrait Pageant. For several years the chorus has been studying hymns, and found them so interesting that this year it was decided to sponsor a 'Hymn Festival, Miss Maude A. Bean explained last evening.

Mrs. R. W. Trevaskis will be director of the festival; Mrs. Robert W. Young, narrator; and Miss Dorothy Willison will lead the audience singing. The presidents of the various Homemaker Clubs will be hostesses and the 4-H Girls will serve as ushers. Mrs. J. J. Coleman is president of the chorus. Her staff includes Mrs. John S. Cook, vice president; Mrs. Joseph Wheeler, secretary; Mrs. Charles Callis, treasurer and Mrs. G. R. Golladay, pianist.

The program will consist of church music and will cover the hymns of two thousand years. An explanation and history of each hymn will be given on the program. There will be solos, quartets, choruses, glee clubs, an a cappella choir and audience singing.

Groups participating in the program will be the Music and Arts club, represented by Mrs. Harry Butler; the Vesper Choir of St. Lukes Lutheran church; the Childrens Choir of Trinity Lutheran church; the LaSalle Glee Club; St. Marys Girls Chorus; St. Patricks Girls Choir; Adult Choir of Centre Street Methodist church, the Pinto Mennonite Quartet; the Baptist Womans Choir, the Fort Hill a Cappella Choir; the Homemakers Chorus and the Girl Scouts Choral Group.

Nearer Now Than Ever: "I will not leave you comfortless ("forlorn —Moffatt). I will come to you." John 14:18. Read John 14:15-21.

Seeming death, then, may be only a shadowed door to bright unfailing nearness. "When," said Jesus, "you se Me no more on Galilean hills, nor hear my voice again, I will be nearer to you than ever; no longer time or space—bound — always near." How true that is this morning between Good Friday and Easter, not only of the Master's presence but of all those we seem for a little to have lost. They are lost only to sight; in love and recollection and in influence and support beyond words to say they are with us; they are with us.

Dr. Atkins

There are so many of them now, they were so young, what they might have been and done all left unfinished. Ah! but now they will never grow old, neither in our memory or in their years. (The photograph you treasure—he will always be like that.) Time will have its way with us, they are now timelessly young and gallant. We can say of them—and all who walk with us no more—with Frederick Hosmer—

"Mine are they by an ownership
Nor time nor death can free;
For God hath given to Love
To keep its own eternally."

Prayer: O God, Thou Helper of the helpless, we bless Thee that in Thy hold keeping are the living and the dead and all are safe till Thou bring them to Thine everlasting light. We praise Thee that all for whom we cared are still ours. May we be true to them. In the name of the ever present. Amen.

Nearer Now Than Ever: "I will not leave you comfortless ("forlorn—Moffatt). I will come to you." John 14:18. Read John 14:15-21.

Seeming death, then, may be only a shadowed door to bright unfailing nearness. "When," said Jesus, "you se Me no more on Galilean hills, nor hear my voice again, I will be nearer to you than ever; no longer time or space—bound — always near." How true that is this morning between Good Friday and Easter, not only of the Master's presence but of all those we seem for a little to have lost. They are lost only to sight; in love and recollection and in influence and support beyond words to say they are with us; they are with us.

Dr. Atkins

There are so many of them now, they were so young, what they might have been and done all left unfinished. Ah! but now they will never grow old, neither in our memory or in their years. (The photograph you treasure—he will always be like that.) Time will have its way with us, they are now timelessly young and gallant. We can say of them—and all who walk with us no more—with Frederick Hosmer—

"Mine are they by an ownership
Nor time nor death can free;
For God hath given to Love
To keep its own eternally."

Prayer: O God, Thou Helper of the helpless, we bless Thee that in Thy hold keeping are the living and the dead and all are safe till Thou bring them to Thine everlasting light. We praise Thee that all for whom we cared are still ours. May we be true to them. In the name of the ever present. Amen.

Women Are Urged To Be Members Of Legion Auxiliary

Speaking of the American Legion Auxiliary membership, drive, Mrs. Robert C. Doty, president of Fort Cumberland Unit, urges that the mothers, sisters, daughters and wives of World War II veterans join the auxiliary. The Legion, she points out, has over 1,000 members and the auxiliary should be five times as large as it is at present.

"Women of World War families must unite to help win the peace," she said, in urging the support of the auxiliary's work for a permanent peace. In the American Legion Auxiliary the veterans women-folk will find activities in which they can exert their influence for good will and understanding among nations; for the success of the United Nations charter and the maintenance of armed forces to protect the peace, Mrs. Doty said.

Mrs. Harry Vogel, membership chairman, reports the auxiliary has gone over its quota set for 1946, but she still feels that the membership is still way below what it should be and hopes that before the end of the year it will be double what is is now.

St. Mark's Girls Guild Plans Banquet for May

A Mother-Daughter banquet will be held by the Senior Girls Guild of St. Mark's Evangelical and Reformed church, May 15. Both the junior and senior girls will be in charge of the banquet and the program.

Plans were discussed at the meeting of the group earlier in the week at the home of Mrs. G. W. Kauffman, Park street. "A Better Understanding of the Races," was the study topic with a book review given by Miss Betty Blank.

Chinese Music Readings Feature Guild Program

A musical program by Mrs. Mabel Popp and readings by Miss Virginia Dixon on China featured the meeting of the Wesleyan Guild of Centre Street Methodist church, earlier in the week at the church social hall.

Mrs. Popp played selections illustrative of the Chinese ideas of melody, a stirring battle song, a folk dance and music incidental to a Chinese wedding. Miss Dixon, member of the faculty of Allegany high school, read sketches from a Chinese book of verse, showing the attitude of the people toward life's experiences, a great appreciation of the beauties of nature, stoicism toward misfortune and great family affection.

Miss Margaret Lester president at the business session and Miss Mildred DeMoss was in charge of the program. Miss Lucretia Boucher related some interesting experiences of a naval officer during World War II. The study of China will be continued at the next meeting.

Purple Heart Auxiliary Donates To Two Projects

The Ladies Auxiliary of Mountain Chapter No. 166, Military Order of the Purple Heart, voted at the meeting Wednesday evening at the Purple Heart Center, to make two contributions, of $10 each. The one will be donated to the Red Cross and the other to Temple Hill Shrine, Newburgh, N. Y.

Mrs. Mary Brinkman presided and Mrs. Jane Bassel read a letter explaining that it was at Temple Hill that the proclamation of congress for cessation of hostilities was read at noon on the anniversary of the battle of Lexington, 1783. Here, she explained, George Washington, aroused by anonymous letters circulated among his soldiers to incite them over failure of congress to pay them, quelled possible rebellion and assumed continuation of that loyalty and determination, which was to produce the United States.

In more than one sense Mrs. Bassel pointed out the word Newburgh and Temple Hill may together be termed the "birthplace of the Republic." Here too it was that Washington refused a crown, determined this country should be a republic.

A birthday party concluded the meeting. Members honored were Mrs. Margaret Stitcher, Mrs. Brinkman, Mrs. Anna McCarty, Mrs. Eleanor Couter, Mrs. Eva Riggleman, Mrs. Bassel, Mrs. Leona Harper, Mrs. Melvina Cubbage and Mrs. Ada Hamburg. An informal program was presented and refreshments served. The large birthday cake was baked by Mrs. Harper.

Delegates will be elected at the meeting May 1.

AAUW Delegates To State Convention May 4 Are Named

Mrs. T. M. Andrews, Mrs. William H. Blake, Miss Ruth A. Clauson, Miss Lillian C. Compton, Mrs. Gilbert M. Miller, Miss Dorothy Shires, Miss Anne W. Tennant and Mrs. Robert L. Thompson will be delegates from the Cumberland Branch of the American Association of University Women to the state convention.

They were elected at the meeting of the branch Wednesday evening at the Girl Scout little house. Mrs. Thomas Lohr Richards, Mrs. William Robert Teeter and Mrs. John J. Hafer will also attend the convention, which will be held May 4 at Hood college, Frederick.

Mrs. Teeter presided at the meeting, at which time the group voted to give its support to the Marian Anderson concert to be given October 31 at Fort Hill high school. Mrs. Richards, Fellowship chairman, was in charge of the program.

Dr. Katherine Luomala, Washington, social science analyst for the War Relocation Authority, was the guest speaker, and spoke of her work giving data on the allocation of the Japanese on the West Coast at the beginning of the war.

She explained that her work includes surveys of public attitudes toward various government programs in order to help administrators function more effectively and economically through adapting them to public needs.

An informal social completed the evening with Mrs. Donald A. Lacoss chairman.

MEN AND WOMEN IN SERVICE

Albert Marshall Neal, Frostburg, who served thirty-nine months in the navy and was last stationed in the Canal Zone, has been discharged from the navy at Bainbridge.

Pfc. Glen T. Douthitt, Cresaptown, is among the men now serving with the First Cavalry division in the occupation of the Nippon capital. Overseas six months, Douthitt is assigned to the Eighth Cavalry regiment, now guarding important buildings in the Tokyo area. He wears the Asiatic-Pacific Theater Ribbon, the Good Conduct Medal, and the Victory Medal. As a civilian he worked as a dairy farmer. He entered the army Dec. 27, 1944 and took his basic training at Fort Riley, Kansas. After discharge he plans to return to his old job. His wife, Mildred Douthitt, resides in Cresaptown.

Richard Eugene Moore, s1-c., son of Mr. and Mrs. James P. Moore, RFD 4, received his discharge April 13, after serving approximately thirty months in Saipan, Iwo Jima, Okinawa and Hawaii aboard merchant marine ships. He will return to work at the Baltimore and Ohio railroad May 1.

Six more Allegany county sailors have received their discharges from the navy at the Bainbridge separation center. They are—William Wayne Price, Thomas Eugene Mackert, Donald Warren Hoff, all of Cumberland; William Donald Sween, and William Joseph Bowers, Frostburg, and Hugh L. Alexander, Midland.

St. Mark's Junior Sunday School To Have Party

Miss Edith Darnley and Mrs. Harold Everline, teachers of the junior department of St. Mark's Evangelical and Reformed church Sunday school, will entertain their pupils with an Easter party today.

It will be held from 2 until 4 o'clock in the social hall of the church. Various quizzes will be held and recreational games will be played under the direction of Mrs. Everline.

The refreshments will be under the chairmanship of Miss Darnley, who has planned to center the table with a nest of Easter eggs, bearing the children's names, miniature rabbits and chicken place cards.

District Nurses Board Committee Will Hold Special Meeting

Plans for the spring meeting of the Maryland State Nurses' Association, which will be held in Cumberland at a date tentatively scheduled for early in June, will be discussed at a special meeting of the board of directors and all committee members of District No. 1 of the state association, which includes Allegany and Garrett counties.

The meeting will be held Friday, April 26, at 7:30 p. m. in the nurses' home at Allegany hospital, according to Miss Marion Weber, R. N., president of District 1.

Go to Church Sunday - Your Church - Any Church - But Go

They Came To Anoint His Body

Three women they were . . . three whose lives had been changed by His power. They came to His tomb . . . because they knew He was dead! In tender and sorrowing homage they would anoint His body . . . the last possible act of loving reverence.

"Be not affrighted!" From holy lips the words fell. "Ye seek Jesus of Nazareth, which was crucified. He is risen! He is not here . . . behold the place where they laid Him."

They looked upon an empty tomb. And then, slowly, the truth . . . the promise His own lips had spoken . . . slowly it became real to them.

They had come in sorrow to anoint His body . . . they went forth in wonder, daring to believe . . . knowing Christ lives!

Over the centuries the troubled, the lost, the sorrowing have come to His Church as the weeping women came to His tomb . . . hoping to find comfort in reverent homage to one who died. And men and women have gone forth rejoicing, believing . . . knowing Christ lives!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend and support the church of his choice. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church on Sunday.

His Body

Three women they were . . . three whose lives had been changed by His power. They came to His tomb . . . because they knew He was dead! In tender and sorrowing homage they would anoint His body . . . the last possible act of loving reverence.

"Be not affrighted!" From holy lips the words fell. "Ye seek Jesus of Nazareth, which was crucified. He is risen! He is not here . . . behold the place where they laid Him."

They looked upon an empty tomb. And then, slowly, the truth . . . the promise His own lips had spoken . . . slowly it became real to them.

They had come in sorrow to anoint His body . . . they went forth in wonder, daring to believe . . . knowing Christ lives!

Over the centuries the troubled, the lost, the sorrowing have come to His Church as the weeping women came to His tomb . . . hoping to find comfort in reverent homage to one who died. And men and women have gone forth rejoicing, believing . . . knowing Christ lives!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend and support the church of his choice. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church on Sunday.

Beneficiary May Be Changed Only By Insured Party

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

A young man, when enlisting in the navy, applied for national service life insurance. He named his mother and a sister as first and second beneficiaries. He was killed in action and the monthly payments are now being paid to his mother. In the event of his mother's death, will the second beneficiary (his sister) receive the remaining installments? Or can the mother have this policy changed so that the balance of insurance will be divided equally among her children upon her death?

D.H.J.

In the above case, the mother has no rights of assignment and cannot name any of the other children as beneficiaries to share and share alike. This assignment can be done only by the insured. If the mother of the insured dies before all payments have been made, the sister would receive the remaining payments.

No New Enlistments in WAC

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Is it still possible to enlist in the Women's Army Corps?

ANXIOUS.

New enlistments in the Women's Army Corps are not being accepted. However, both WAC officers and enlisted women are being encouraged to remain in the service beyond their dates of eligibility for separation.

Inform Separation Center

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My husband has failed to receive all his mustering-out pay, and as we recently changed our address, perhaps this is the reason for it. Where shall he write to find out about it?

(Mrs.) K. L.

Until mustering-out pay has been received in full, it is imperative that the soldier keep the separation center or station informed of any change of address. Government regulations forbid forwarding treasury checks beyond the address appearing thereone, and they are returned to the place of separation if a soldier's address has been changed.

Family Allowance Is Best

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My husband is a top sergeant in the army and we are receiving the family allowance of $100 for myself and two children. Would I receive a larger amount if he applied for monetary allowance in lieu of quarters?

(Mrs.) S. W.

You are really gaining more by receiving the family allowance benefits. Your husband contributes $22 to the amount you are receiving. Whereas, if he applied for monetary allowance in lieu of quarters, he would receive only $37.50 for dependents and would have to authorize a class "E" allotment to make up the balance of the $100 you are receiving.

Addresses of Soldiers

Dear Miss Fairfax:

A young man in the service with whom I've been corresponding has been shipped out and his letter are being returned to me. How can I get his correct address?

P.

The War department has announced that its policy of giving out addresses of soldiers only to members of their immediate families is still in effect.

EASTER

Easter week, the most natural, yet the most mysterious period in all our year.

Long before the Christian era men had observed this spring-time festival with songs and prayers and sacrifice—using even the name which today is sanctified.

Even the darkest savage felt the wonder of earth's wakening and the cruelest barbarian recognized the marvel of swelling seed, groping root and bursting bud.

Easter, with the dark stone rolled away from winter's tomb—and all the world shining in its resurrection.

Easter and spring. Never was there a surer promise and proof that life goes on, triumphant. Here again is happiness and hope! Here again is rebirth . . . a new chance!

A little while ago each bow and twig, each inch of bare, chilled earth marked some small grave within which life lay still, wrapped in its sheath of death. Yet now, today, that bare earth quivers with the thrusting grass, those twigs sway with their quickening tides of bloom, the brooding air is webbed with bird song and the murmur-out flight of bees.

For spring has come! Springtime and Easter with their broken seals and all the wonder of a new and fearless life!

But will you take that life?

Will you accept the gift of spring's renewal?

Will you believe the glorious reality of Easter?

For Easter is real. It's not a religious myth, a superstitious sop for broken hearts. Easter is as true and natural as that quickening leaf, that hatching egg and sprouting bulb. Where there was silence and darkness, now there is life which we can touch and feel and take.

BUT WILL YOU TAKE THAT LIFE?

For Easter is not real to you unless you do your part—unless you too live Easter. And spring is but a name unless you roll the stone from your own tomb and dare to start again.

What is your tomb? There are a thousand tombs for each of us. There's fear, our deepest tomb. And selfishness and hate . . . intolerance and greed . . . and dread of further pain.

We say we long for spring. We wish our hearts could wake again and sing and love and laugh again as they once did. And yet, when Easter comes, we dare not take the chance, we dare not face the resurrection challenge. We hug our tomb. We cower in the darkness of our memories. We seek escape in old and bitter grief rather than face the warm struggle with reality.

One of First Beall High School Graduates Is Taken by Death

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG, April 19 — Miss Emma C. Hohing died suddenly at 3 p. m. today at her home, 48 Broadway. She had returned here yesterday after spending four weeks with her sister, Mrs. Raymond E. Young, Aquasco, Md.

Miss Hohing, a native of Lonaconing, had been a resident of Frostburg since childhood. She was a daughter of the late Otto and Anna E. Hartig Hohing. Her father was sheriff of Allegany county at one time.

A member of the first graduating class of Beall high school, Miss Hohing was a lifelong member of Salem Evangelical and Reformed church, and was active in various societies of the church until her health began to fail several years ago.

Besides her sister, Miss Hohing is survived by three nephews and four nieces.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Sunrise Service Planned

A sunrise Easter service, sponsored by the Eckhart Baptist and Eckhart Methodist churches, will be held Sunday at 6 a. m. at the parking lot in the Eckhart cemetery.

The service will be conducted by the Rev. John Wilson of the Methodist church, and the Easter sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Sidney Aldrich, pastor of the Baptist church.

Sacred choral music will be sung by the combined choirs of both churches. The service will last an hour and will feature selections by a trio of trumpeters.

Visitation Made

The semi-annual visitation of the officers of the Grand Bethel, Order of Job's Daughters of Maryland, to Bethel No. 15, Frostburg, took place Wednesday evening in the Masonic temple, 76 East Main street.

Grand officers who attended and inspected the work of the local officers were Mrs. Anna R. Beckett, grand guardian, Glen Burnie, Md.; George Marvel, Ferndale, Md., associate grand guardian; Mrs. Estelle Jobe, Washington, D. C., vice grand guardian; and Hugh V. Keyser, Bethesda, Md., associate vice grand guardian.

The grand officers, accompanied by thirty members of the organization, came here in a chartered bus and were served dinner at 6:30 p. m. in the Masonic temple.

The meeting of the local bethel was opened at 7:30 p. m., with the newly elected officers conducting the opening ceremony. After hearing the ritualistic work conducted by the official staff of the Frostburg bethel, which is the only bethel in Allegany county, Beckett and the other grand officers complimented the officers for their efficiency and paid a tribute to Miss Margaret Hendley, guardian, and Walter Mackay, associate guardian, who has been the sponsors of the group for the past year.

The grand officers reported that there are now twenty-five bethels in Maryland and that a new one is to be instituted at Hagerstown May 3.

The grand officers and the group who accompanied them returned to Baltimore the same evening.

Raid of Rangers

idea of riding into Cumberland and getting himself a nice catch of Yankee generals and as many horses as possible. The idea appealed to him and he had put a lot of thought on it."

Is Fatally Wounded

Old Capt. John kept turning the Cumberland proposition over in his mind regarding it as more attractive all the time until the night of Ocober 3, 1864, when he received fatal wounds while leading his Rangers in a night attack on Federal forces encamped at Mimms Bottom. A less rugged man would have died almost immediately but the hardy West Virginian lingered on until November 10.

It is not difficult to reconstruct the scene of the captain on his death bed in an old West Virginia farmhouse. Capt. John's long flowing beard and dark piercing eyes gave him the appearance of an old Testament prophet. Life was sweet to the old trooper and he did not relish the prospect of dying, especially with a lively war in progress. John McNeill loved life and he had lived it right up to the hilt. He liked horses, fishing, hunting and the pleasure of smelling the moist, dank soil freshly upturned in the spring by his shiny plough.

Lying on his bed, his roving glance caught the sight of two of his favorite "Yellowjacket" horses tethered by an old watering trough. Named after the stallion owned by the VanMeters, the sturdy, doughty animals were a constant delight to their owners, the Rangers who would walk all morning in the woods to catch a horse to ride two or three miles to the court house—or a fight. The West Virginia animals had wide-sprung ribs but the belly line curved neatly over a small stomach. In general, the horses were beautifully symmetrical and had a balanced form. Their backs were short and consequently they were able to carry weight easily. The croup was level and the tail set on high and carried jauntily, like a plume.

Counsels His Son

A few months later these tough thoroughbreds were to carry the Rangers into Cumberland or one of the most daring and seemingly foolhardy missions in cavalry history. But old John knew he wouldn't be going on that ride. Well, Jess, his son, would have to do it. Jess, the father thought somewhat ruefully, was a chip-off-the-old block—much like himself at the same age; a good rider, a good shot and a good fighter but a hairbrained daredevil if there ever was one, his father reflected. Well, he would talk to Jess.

We are indebted to Capt. Jesse McNeill himself for a comment on that interview with his dying father. In speaking of his famous raid on Cumberland, he wrote, "I felt the weight of responsibility resting on me as I recalled a lecture which my father gave me on his deathbed about my rashness, or foolhardiness, as he termed it, and telling me to look well for a getting-out place before going in.

One can imagine that deathbed scene—the old patriarch, his face pallid under the dark bronze—his eyes kindling as his reckless young son, 165 pounds of bone and muscle, stepped lightly into the bedroom in answer to his fathers summons. Old Jess gave his son plain "hell that day but the younger man was to reflect in later years that the final lecture was the greatest favor his father ever did him. But to his dying day Jesse McNeill would admit that his fathers tongue could sting like a quirt when he lashed out at what he termed "cussedness and damn foolishness.

With his father dead, Capt. Jesse McNeill, who was elected to succeed his father by the Rangers, was anxious to get on with the Cumberland raid. Unfortunately, McNeill had the misfortune (for the Confederates at least) to have his leg severely injured in December during which time he was "confined for two or three weeks at the hospitable home of Felix B. Walton and suffered much. Chafing inwardly at this bit of singular bad luck, McNeill started planning his raid and the accident may have been a blessing in disguise for the mission, as a result, was planned, down to the last detail.

Scouts Sent Out

McNeill related in a copy of the Confederate Veteran published in 1906 that early in February, 1865, John Lynn, a member of his command from Cumberland, decided he would like to return home on a furlough. The fact there were some troops in Cumberland at the moment did not deter him and off he went after promising to secure McNeill all neeeded information. Lynn failed to return.

McNeill next sent for Sgt. John B. Fay, a Cumberland boy, "a gallant, cunning and trusted scout of my father's" and consulted with him about obtaining the information desired. Fay's instructions were to proceed to Cumberland and receive all the information he could and report to McNeill at the Hampshire county poorhouse on the night of February 19.

Most army commanders will tell you that a good scout is worth his weight in gold and one hard-bitten regular in the recent Pacific went so far as to growl at one time that "good scouts become rarer and rarer with each successive war." John Fay was undoubtedly as good a scout as any commander could want. Crossing boldly into enemy country he proceeded to spot every sentry post along McNeill's "approach march" route, sized up the number of troops in Cumberland, noted the conditions of the roads and bridges and even determined the rooms occupied by Crook and General Kelly in two Cumberland hotels. Having completed his reconnaisance, he wrote Capt. McNeill a friendly little note the easy familiarity of which would have caused commanders in the last war to raise disturbed eyebrows. Fay wrote:

"Dear Jesse, I have been across the Potomac and find all O. K. Meet me here on Monday evening. Haller will give you all particulars and the plan, if carried out, will certainly prove successful.." Haller was a 16--old Missourian whose company Fay enjoyed on his various sorties. "Meet me here" meant at Vanse Herriott's house about six miles below Romney.

Horses Are Shod

Meanwhile, sixty-five Rangers had been informed of the contemplated plan and mighty preparations were underway with each rider giving attention to his gear and the shoeing of his horse. The troop at that time was encamped near Moorefield and on February 18 they broke camp and rode leisurely to the poorhouse where they camped for the night.

At this point, McNeill instructed Lt. Boggs and the remainder of his command to guard the roads and protect the troop's rear. The next morning the troop broke camp and moved slowly down the South Branch, halting to feed and kill time, for, as McNeill wrote later, "I knew that prudence demanded that the trip be made in great haste after reaching Romney."

The troop crossed the Northwestern Turnpike leading from Newcreek to Winchester, at both of which places there were garrisons of Federal troops, Cumberland was twenty-six miles beyond this point.

It was after dark when the troop reached Herriott's and McNeill found Fay waiting. Some time was consumed in feeding the horses and resting them for the sixty-five mile ride they must take before they could be fed or rested again.

After leaving Herriott's, the troop moved along the Virginia side of the Potomac until they reached the house of Ren Seymour, a near relative of Lt. Welton. Welton and two or three of the men dismounted and going to the house "awoke the old gentleman from his peaceful slumber and requested that he go to the cellar and fill a few canteens with the good old Bourbon he was known to keep on hand. The night was intensely cold and appreciating the situation, Seymour complied with the request at the same time enjoining the men to touch it lightly.

"The admonition was unnecessary", McNeill wrote, "for every man realized that if there ever was a time when they needed clear heads, and steady firm nerves, it was then."

Sad Sack Gives Warning

Another personage encountered at Seymour's was an Edwin Harness who, when he was informed of the mission, bade the Rangers all goodbye and assured them them they would be either killed or captured.

Remounting, the Rangers started to ride, with each man bending low over his mount's neck to protect his face from the bitter cold. Occasional lights were noted by the riders in lonely farmhouses, and every now and then sparks would fly as the well-shod hooves of the horses struck sharply against stray stones. How that intrepid troop rode into Cumberland and out again with their two generals have been told many times and space does not permit its retelling here.

Someday, Kenneth Roberts or some equally gifted writer with a flair for historical story telling will drift into the Romney area, sort out all the stacks and stacks of information on the Rangers and spin a yarn that will give Spencer Tracy another big role in Hollywood. The material is there and waiting, and it will be kept alive as long as men like Mr. Alkire enjoy sitting down on a Sunday morning and retelling the stories that are now legend in that area. Mr. Alkire is worth a volume all by himself, as far as that goes . . . . and he still recalls the day that McNeill returned to ride over his route into Cumberland and Alkire went along. As you might imagine, it was a very informative trip.

idea of riding into Cumberland and getting himself a nice catch of Yankee generals and as many horses as possible. The idea appealed to him and he had put a lot of thought on it."

Is Fatally Wounded

Old Capt. John kept turning the Cumberland proposition over in his mind regarding it as more attractive all the time until the night of Ocober 3, 1864, when he received fatal wounds while leading his Rangers in a night attack on Federal forces encamped at Mimms Bottom. A less rugged man would have died almost immediately but the hardy West Virginian lingered on until November 10.

It is not difficult to reconstruct the scene of the captain on his death bed in an old West Virginia farmhouse. Capt. John's long flowing beard and dark piercing eyes gave him the appearance of an old Testament prophet. Life was sweet to the old trooper and he did not relish the prospect of dying, especially with a lively war in progress. John McNeill loved life and he had lived it right up to the hilt. He liked horses, fishing, hunting and the pleasure of smelling the moist, dank soil freshly upturned in the spring by his shiny plough.

Lying on his bed, his roving glance caught the sight of two of his favorite "Yellowjacket" horses tethered by an old watering trough. Named after the stallion owned by the VanMeters, the sturdy, doughty animals were a constant delight to their owners, the Rangers who would walk all morning in the woods to catch a horse to ride two or three miles to the court house—or a fight. The West Virginia animals had wide-sprung ribs but the belly line curved neatly over a small stomach. In general, the horses were beautifully symmetrical and had a balanced form. Their backs were short and consequently they were able to carry weight easily. The croup was level and the tail set on high and carried jauntily, like a plume.

Counsels His Son

A few months later these tough thoroughbreds were to carry the Rangers into Cumberland or one of the most daring and seemingly foolhardy missions in cavalry history. But old John knew he wouldn't be going on that ride. Well, Jess, his son, would have to do it. Jess, the father thought somewhat ruefully, was a chip-off-the-old block—much like himself at the same age; a good rider, a good shot and a good fighter but a hairbrained daredevil if there ever was one, his father reflected. Well, he would talk to Jess.

We are indebted to Capt. Jesse McNeill himself for a comment on that interview with his dying father. In speaking of his famous raid on Cumberland, he wrote, "I felt the weight of responsibility resting on me as I recalled a lecture which my father gave me on his deathbed about my rashness, or foolhardiness, as he termed it, and telling me to look well for a getting-out place before going in.

One can imagine that deathbed scene—the old patriarch, his face pallid under the dark bronze—his eyes kindling as his reckless young son, 165 pounds of bone and muscle, stepped lightly into the bedroom in answer to his fathers summons. Old Jess gave his son plain "hell that day but the younger man was to reflect in later years that the final lecture was the greatest favor his father ever did him. But to his dying day Jesse McNeill would admit that his fathers tongue could sting like a quirt when he lashed out at what he termed "cussedness and damn foolishness.

With his father dead, Capt. Jesse McNeill, who was elected to succeed his father by the Rangers, was anxious to get on with the Cumberland raid. Unfortunately, McNeill had the misfortune (for the Confederates at least) to have his leg severely injured in December during which time he was "confined for two or three weeks at the hospitable home of Felix B. Walton and suffered much. Chafing inwardly at this bit of singular bad luck, McNeill started planning his raid and the accident may have been a blessing in disguise for the mission, as a result, was planned, down to the last detail.

Scouts Sent Out

McNeill related in a copy of the Confederate Veteran published in 1906 that early in February, 1865, John Lynn, a member of his command from Cumberland, decided he would like to return home on a furlough. The fact there were some troops in Cumberland at the moment did not deter him and off he went after promising to secure McNeill all neeeded information. Lynn failed to return.

McNeill next sent for Sgt. John B. Fay, a Cumberland boy, "a gallant, cunning and trusted scout of my father's" and consulted with him about obtaining the information desired. Fay's instructions were to proceed to Cumberland and receive all the information he could and report to McNeill at the Hampshire county poorhouse on the night of February 19.

Most army commanders will tell you that a good scout is worth his weight in gold and one hard-bitten regular in the recent Pacific went so far as to growl at one time that "good scouts become rarer and rarer with each successive war." John Fay was undoubtedly as good a scout as any commander could want. Crossing boldly into enemy country he proceeded to spot every sentry post along McNeill's "approach march" route, sized up the number of troops in Cumberland, noted the conditions of the roads and bridges and even determined the rooms occupied by Crook and General Kelly in two Cumberland hotels. Having completed his reconnaisance, he wrote Capt. McNeill a friendly little note the easy familiarity of which would have caused commanders in the last war to raise disturbed eyebrows. Fay wrote:

"Dear Jesse, I have been across the Potomac and find all O. K. Meet me here on Monday evening. Haller will give you all particulars and the plan, if carried out, will certainly prove successful." Haller was a 16--old Missourian whose company Fay enjoyed on his various sorties. "Meet me here" meant at Vanse Herriott's house about six miles below Romney.

Horses Are Shod

Meanwhile, sixty-five Rangers had been informed of the contemplated plan and mighty preparations were underway with each rider giving attention to his gear and the shoeing of his horse. The troop at that time was encamped near Moorefield and on February 18 they broke camp and rode leisurely to the poorhouse where they camped for the night.

At this point, McNeill instructed Lt. Boggs and the remainder of his command to guard the roads and protect the troop's rear. The next morning the troop broke camp and moved slowly down the South Branch, halting to feed and kill time, for, as McNeill wrote later, "I knew that prudence demanded that the trip be made in great haste after reaching Romney."

The troop crossed the Northwestern Turnpike leading from Newcreek to Winchester, at both of which places there were garrisons of Federal troops. Cumberland was twenty-six miles beyond this point.

It was after dark when the troop reached Herriott's and McNeill found Fay waiting. Some time was consumed in feeding the horses and resting them for the sixty-five mile ride they must take before they could be fed or rested again.

After leaving Herriott's, the troop moved along the Virginia side of the Potomac until they reached the house of Ren Seymour, a near relative of Lt. Welton. Welton and two or three of the men dismounted and going to the house "awoke the old gentleman from his peaceful slumber and requested that he go to the cellar and fill a few canteens with the good old Bourbon he was known to keep on hand. The night was intensely cold and appreciating the situation, Seymour complied with the request at the same time enjoining the men to touch it lightly.

"The admonition was unnecessary", McNeill wrote, "for every man realized that if there ever was a time when they needed clear heads, and steady firm nerves, it was then."

Sad Sack Gives Warning

Another personage encountered at Seymour's was an Edwin Harness who, when he was informed of the mission, bade the Rangers all goodbye and assured them them they would be either killed or captured.

Remounting, the Rangers started to ride, with each man bending low over his mount's neck to protect his face from the bitter cold. Occasional lights were noted by the riders in lonely farmhouses, and every now and then sparks would fly as the well-shod hooves of the horses struck sharply against stray stones. How that intrepid troop rode into Cumberland and out again with their two generals have been told many times and space does not permit its retelling here.

Someday, Kenneth Roberts or some equally gifted writer with a flair for historical story telling will drift into the Romney area, sort out all the stacks and stacks of information on the Rangers and spin a yarn that will give Spencer Tracy another big role in Hollywood. The material is there and waiting, and it will be kept alive as long as men like Mr. Alkire enjoy sitting down on a Sunday morning and retelling the stories that are now legend in that area. Mr. Alkire is worth a volume all by himself, as far as that goes . . . . and he still recalls the day that McNeill returned to ride over his route into Cumberland and Alkire went along. As you might imagine, it was a very informative trip.

Kidney Stones Remain Puzzling Medical Problem

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

One of the most puzzling of still unsolved medical problems has to do with the formation of a certain type of kidney stones. Stones which form in the kidneys may be made up of various substances but, in the main, they are composed of one or the other of two mineral salts, phosphates or oxalates.

Now the why and wherefore of phosphate stone formation is pretty well understood and for this reason doctors have had no little success in preventing their recurrence. On the other hand causes of oxalate stone formation remain obscure.

Two Kinds of Stone

It is agreed, according to Drs. Harold Jeghers and Rosemary Murphy, of Boston, that infections and blocking of the flow of urine, so important in producing phosphate stones, have no effect in producing oxalate stones.

With these obvious causes out, doctors have tried to discover whether diet might perhaps play some role in the formation of this most common of all types of kidney stones.

They noted that oxalate stones are of much more frequent occurrence in the people of certain areas of the world than in those living elsewhere. From this it is suggested that the use of a diet high in oxalic acid content may result in stones of this kind.

Among such foods are: beet tops, Swiss chard, parsley, rhubarb, spinach, dried figs, cocoa, chocolate and gelatin. Black tea and ground pepper are also rich in oxalic acid.

Nothing Conclusive.

However, there are other areas where such stones develop frequently in which the diet employed is low in oxalates, so there is nothing conclusive about this observation.

Again experiments were carried out in which oxalate stones were produced in rats on a diet low in magnesium. However, whether or not lessening of the magnesium content of the diet in human beings may be a factor in oxalate stone production is still not known.

Nevertheless, a diet has been suggested which it is thought may be helpful in preventing kidney stones made up of calcium oxalate. This is one made up of plenty of calcium, magnesium and phosphorous, but low in oxalate-rich foods.

It should contain also plenty of whole-grain foods, a variety of fruits and vegetables, excluding those mentioned above, milk, butter, meat and meat broth. If necessary, calcium and magnesium preparations may be used to supplement the diet. It is also suggested that increasing the intake of vitamins A and B-complex, and a lessening of the starches and sugars in the diet may also be of value.

Some things are certain, constipation should be eliminated and worry avoided as much as possible. From eight to ten glassfuls of water should be drunk daily.

Questions and Answers

R. G.: What causes numbness in the hands?

Answer: This may be due to nerve disorders, trouble with circulation, vitamin deficienry, and similar causes. Careful study by a physician is needed in each instance to determine the cause before treatment can be prescribed.

Kidney Stones Remain Puzzling Medical Problem

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

One of the most puzzling of still unsolved medical problems has to do with the formation of a certain type of kidney stones. Stones which form in the kidneys may be made up of various substances but, in the main, they are composed of one or the other of two mineral salts, phosphates or oxalates.

Now the why and wherefore of phosphate stone formation is pretty well understood and for this reason doctors have had no little success in preventing their recurrence. On the other hand causes of oxalate stone formation remain obscure.

Two Kinds of Stone

It is agreed, according to Drs. Harold Jeghers and Rosemary Murphy, of Boston, that infections and blocking of the flow of urine, so important in producing phosphate stones, have no effect in producing oxalate stones.

With these obvious causes out, doctors have tried to discover whether diet might perhaps play some role in the formation of this most common of all types of kidney stones.

They noted that oxalate stones are of much more frequent occurrence in the people of certain areas of the world than in those living elsewhere. From this it is suggested that the use of a diet high in oxalic acid content may result in stones of this kind.

Among such foods are: beet tops, Swiss chard, parsley, rhubarb, spinach, dried figs, cocoa, chocolate and gelatin. Black tea and ground pepper are also rich in oxalic acid.

Nothing Conclusive.

However, there are other areas where such stones develop frequently in which the diet employed is low in oxalates, so there is nothing conclusive about this observation.

Again experiments were carried out in which oxalate stones were produced in rats on a diet low in magnesium. However, whether or not lessening of the magnesium content of the diet in human beings may be a factor in oxalate stone production is still not known.

Nevertheless, a diet has been suggested which it is thought may be helpful in preventing kidney stones made up of calcium oxalate. This is one made up of plenty of calcium, magnesium and phosphorous, but low in oxalate-rich foods.

It should contain also plenty of whole-grain foods, a variety of fruits and vegetables, excluding those mentioned above, milk, butter, meat and meat broth. If necessary, calcium and magnesium preparations may be used to supplement the diet. It is also suggested that increasing the intake of vitamins A and B-complex, and a lessening of the starches and sugars in the diet may also be of value.

Some things are certain, constipation should be eliminated and worry avoided as much as possible. From eight to ten glassfuls of water should be drunk daily.

Questions and Answers

R. G.: What causes numbness in the hands?

Answer: This may be due to nerve disorders, trouble with circulation, vitamin deficienry, and similar causes. Careful study by a physician is needed in each instance to determine the cause before treatment can be prescribed.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Maude Dusch, Plaintiff vs. Bernard A. Dusch, Defendant.
No. 19166 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree of divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII, divorcing the plaintiff from the defendant. The bill states that the parties were married at Uniontown, Pennsylvania, on the 20th day of February, 1926; that four children were born of said marriage whose custody and guardianship the plaintiff is seeking. That the defendant has deserted and abandoned the plaintiff without just cause or reason, and that the desertion has continued uninterruptedly for over eighteen months and is beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation; that the plaintiff is a resident of Allegany County, Maryland, whereas the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland.

It is thereupon this 5th day of April, 1946 by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, in Equity, ordered that the plaintiff by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County once a week for four successive weeks before the 7th day of May, 1946, giving notice to the absent defendant of the object and substance of this bill and warning him to be and appear in this court in person or by solicitor on or before the 23rd day of May, 1946, show cause why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

West Virginia Grid Camp Opens in Keyser June 5

Potomac State Will Be Host to Mountaineers Two Weeks; 1946 Card Lists Ten Contests

West Virginia university will hold its June football camp at Potomac State School, Keyser, and approximately 100 persons, including the coaching staff and candidates for the Mountaineer squad will be quartered at the dormitory of the Keyser school during the two weeks' training grind, it was learned yesterday.

The camp will open on Wednesday, June 5, and the players will train for the two weeks' period under the watchful eye of William F. "Bill" Kern, head coach, and his staff of assistants. Roy M. "Legs" Hawley, athletic director of the Morgantown university, is also expected to attend the camp. Kern returns to West Virginia as head coach after a hitch in the navy, Ira Rodgers having taken over the coaching duties at the Mountaineer institution during his absence.

Facilities Are Approved

Coach Kern visited Keyser several days ago and reported to the university authorities that Potomac State School of West Virginia University seemed to offer all the facilities necessary for the summer workouts. The board of governors of the university approved the training site.

West Virginia held spring football practice in Morgantown and according to information from there he was disappointed because the boys who reported weren't of big-three college calibre. It was pointed out that such prewar players as Gene Corum, Howard Lewellen, Chester Spelock, Alva Richmond, Andy Clark and Warder Powell must return if the Mountaineers are to make a respectable showing. The Mountaineers have yet to attract the GI's to Morgantown.

The play of Jim Devonshire, 195 pounder from New Jersey, was most pleasing among the newcomers in spring drills and he is being spoken of already as a regular this fall regardless of who come back. Guard Amby Zubel, of Wheeling, stood out in drills, too, according to reports.

Spring and summer camps were necessary this year because of the stiff schedule to be tackled by the Mountaineers.

To Play Ten Games

A ten-game program is planned and nine contests already have been arranged. Six of the games will be played away from home.

The opener with a yet unnamed opponent will be played in Morgantown, September 21. The remainder of the schedule is as follows:

Sept. 28—Pitt, away.
Oct. 5—Waynesburg, home.
Oct. 12—Washington and Lee, at Charleston.
Oct. 18—Temple, away, night.
Oct. 26—Syracuse, home.
Nov. 2—U.S. Military Academy (Army), at West Point, N. Y.
Nov. 9—Fordham, home.
Nov. 16—Kentucky, away.
Nov. 23—Virginia, at Charlottesville, Va.

Catfish Are Stocked In Nearby Streams Of West Virginia

CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 19—The first state-wide distribution of channel catfish in the conservation commission's history will begin about May 1, Director Jack Shipman announces.

Purchase of 20,000 fish this year and a like number for stocking purposes for 1947 has been authorized from a $1,100,000 contingent appropriation voted by the 1945 legislature.

B. D. Wills, supervisor of the commission's hatcheries, said that more than 165,000 legal size trout will have been placed in streams by April 27 when the season opens. All designated trout waters were included in the stocking program which began March 4 and will continue through July 1, with the heavily fished streams having priority in the remainder of the program.

This year's quotas of channel catfish by streams and congressional districts include:

McCluskey, 34, Will Attempt Comeback In Penn Relays

PHILADELPHIA, April 19 (AP) — Joe McCluskey, who was winning steeplechase and distance running titles when most of the present day athletes were in grammer school, will attempt a comeback in the Penn relay carnival.

Joe lists his age as 34 but he began running 17 years ago. He informed the University of Pennsylvania today he'll run in the two-mile special race at the relays' fifty-second annual renewal April 26 and 27 on Franklin field.

Now a lieutenant commander at the New London, Conn., submarine base, Joe has a record of running the two miles in nine minutes and 15 seconds, less than three seconds off the relay record established by Greg Rice in 1944.

Terps Lose to Spiders On Wild Pitch, 4-3

RICHMOND, Va., April 19 (AP)—A wild pitch in the ninth inning gave the University of Richmond Spiders a 4-to-3 victory over University of Maryland in a Southern conference baseball game today.

Harry Hughes, whose mates had come from behind on two occasions to tie the count, cut loose with a low pitch with two outs and Pat Fenlon, the Spider shortstop, on third. The pitch had hardly got past Catcher Don Gleasner when Fenlon tallied the winning run. Score:

FORMS UNION

Corsairs Favor Players' Guild

Feel that Union Could Get Them Out of the "Slavery" Class

PITTSBURGH, April 19. (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates come home to a union-conscious town today and expressed themselves—with few dissenting voices—in favor of a players' guild to pinch-hit for them against the owners.

The majority in favor made this reservation, however — they don't like the idea of strikes in their prospective "labor league" any better than they like the variety the umpires call on them. Their feeling was that players should be united but that difficulties should be ironed out by parleying instead of picketing.

Players in sympathy with the guild idea—none wanted to be quoted—feel that united representation could get them out of the "slavery" class in contract terms.

PREAKNESS STAKES MAY BRING RECORD PURSE OF $140,000

BALTIMORE, April 19—(AP)—The Maryland Jockey Club announced today that five supplementary entries had been made for the $100,000-added Preakness Stakes at Pimlico May 11, which might boost the gross purse to a world's record of around $140,000.

The five new arrivals for the mile and three sixteenths classic are Hampden, from William Du Pont, Jr.'s Foxcatcher Farm; Assault, from the King Ranch of Robert Kleburg; Bobanet Stable's Marine Victory; R. S. McLaughlin's Wee Admiral and E. P. Taylor's Windfield.

It cost owners of the supplementary entries $3,000 each to nominate their hopefuls, and the present value of the race is $129,460. If ten horses run, paying an additional $1,000 each as a starters fee, the total would surpass the $137,900 gross purse for the 1946 Santa Anita Handicap.

Fire Damages Seats In Baltimore Stadium

BALTIMORE, April 19 (AP)—A fire early today in the municipal stadium was discovered by a night watchman locked in the structure—but he shouted to a pedestrian and an alarm was sounded.

About nine seats were destroyed by the fire, which did not cause enough damage to interrupt the baseball game scheduled tonight between Baltimore and Rochester.

Press and radio facilities also were damaged but it was expected they would be repaired in time for the game.

R. Brooke Maxwell, superintendent of parks, said he was investigating the matter—including the possibility of having a fire alarm installed inside the stadium.

Pittsburgh Pirates Are Without Homes; Fletcher Uses Tent

PITTSBURGH, April 19 (AP)—It'll be tenting tonight in old Forbes Field unless another solution is offered a gang of "homeless" Pittsburgh Pirates who came home today and found themselves in the street.

Ebullient Elbie Fletcher erected a makeshift tent of a tarpaulin and baseball bats in Forbes field, saying it was better than sleeping in the streets.

"I wish I was a sleepwalker," moaned Pitcher Rip Sewell. "At least I'd get some rest while I'm walking."

Winner Will Get $22,600 If Fourteen Go to Post Today

NEW YORK, April 19 (AP)—The race that has produced five Kentucky Derby winners in sixteen years — the Wood Memorial — has its twenty-third running at Jamaica tomorrow, and there are at least two among the fourteen nominees who would cause no great consternation by winning the necklace of roses again this year.

They are the Delaware Dandy, William Dupont, Jr.'s Hampden, a waltzing ten-length winner his last time out, and the Texas speedster, Robert J. Kleberg, Jr.'s Assault, who clicked by four lengths in his 1946 debut.

Despite the presence of such contenders as Mrs. Elizabeth Graham's big four, Charlie Fisher's Spy Song and William Helis's Rippey, already on the derby grounds, no one would be too astonished if either of these two won tomorrow and then went on to repeat the trick Gallant Fox, Twenty Grand, Johnstown and Count Fleet did when they whipped home in the Wood and took the big pot out in the blue grass. It was done a year ago by Hoop, Jr.

Winner May Get $22,600

This year the Wood is all dressed up with a $25,000-added price tag—of which the winner will get a $22,600 paycheck if all fourteen go to the post—and gives the three-year olds their first chance of the season to go a mile-and-a-sixteenth under the derby load of 126 pounds.

And while Hampden and Assault figure to be the hot horses for the crowd of 50,000 or so expected, there are three or four others among the dozen derby candidates in the field of fourteen who might win.

Among this threatening set are Round View, who won the Flamingo at Hialeah for polo-player Laddie Sanford over the winter; Alamond, who took the mile-and-a-sixteenth Experimental for Cleveland accountant Al Ernst a week ago, and Islam Prince, the stretch-running streak from the barn of J. Ben Theall of New Orleans, who has come with a rush to finish second in his last two starts.

Outsiders May Surprise

The outsiders, who might conceivably pull a big rabbit out of a little hat on this Easter week-end—are the Virginia-born Cedar Creek, owned by automobile man Walter Chrysler, Jr.; Mrs. R. D. Patterson's tall, fast-closing Alworth, and a couple of recent disappointments—Robert Bruce Livie's Marine Victory and Mrs. Vera S. Bragg's Mist O'Gold.

Armed Is Choice In 'Graw Feature

Dodson Will Ride Ace of Calumet Farm in $20,000 Handicap

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 19 (AP) — The combination of of Calumet Farm's Armed and Jockey Doug Dodson should be enough to scare six other entries in the $20,000-added Philadelphia Handicap here tomorrow off the track.

Armed, heavily favored in the six-furlongs Harford handicap here on opening day only to drop a length and a half decision to Bobanet Stable's Bobanet, should take the mile and a sixteenth Philadelphia in a breeze. He was listed at the probable odds of 3 to 5.

Tomorrow's race will be virtually a re-running of the Harford as far as favorites are concerned, since Bobanet and Christiana Stable's Alexis, also are entered. Alexis was third in the Harford.

In that event, Jockey Aubrey Snellings had Armed going like a whirlwind down the stretch, but a slow start allowed the speedy Bobanet to hold his advantage. Armed, after fighting to break through at the head of the stretch, needed only another 20 yards to win. He'll have two and a half extra furlongs tomorrow.

Bobanet's package was lifted three pounds to 119, including Jockie Donnie Padgett. Alexis, running as an entry with his stablemates Service Pilot and Megogo, was assigned 112. Service Pilot gets in with 107 and Megogo 109.

Others named for this thirty-third running of the stake were William Helis' Pindus, 111; and A. F. Plock's Ellis, 115.

Jimenez Knocks Out Shapiro in Third

NEW YORK, April 19. (AP)—Julio Jimenez, Mexican lightweight, knocked out Maxie Shapiro, of New York, in the third round of the scheduled ten-round main event on the weekly boxing program at the St. Nicholas Arena tonight. Jimenez weighed 138½ to his opponent's 132½.

They divided the first two rounds but in the third the Mexican jolted Shapiro with a right to the head and put him away with a right uppercut to the chin at 1:29.

Ted Williams Is Terrific, Hit .500 against Senators

Griffith Says Sox Ace May Become Greatest Hitter of All Time; Ted Dislikes Passes

By BUS HAM

WASHINGTON, April 19 (AP)—About a ball player named Ted Williams, Boston Red Sox outfielder:

"I think he's going to be the greatest hitter of all time," said Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington Senators, after watching Williams pace his team to a clean-sweep of the opening American League series.

"I'd throw him nothing but blooper balls—and I mean real high, lazy bloopers," Griffith said. "Then he'd have to supply his own power, take a little run at the ball and be off balance."

After a capacity turnout of 30,000 opening day, 10,000 fans attended the second and third games of the Senators-Red Sox series.

"That never happened before here," club officials said, "and those fans came out to see Williams hit."

As for Ted himself, he was somewhat annoyed at being purposely passed four times.

"They ought to do something about that passing business," he told a reporter. "It not only deprives a batter of a chance to hit, but bases on balls don't show up worth a hoot in the records.

At the rate Williams has started drawing free tickets so early in the season, he may break Babe Ruth's all-time record of 170, set in 1932.

Oakland Golf Club Will Open Sunday

Bill Loeffler Engaged as Pro at Garrett County Course

OAKLAND, Md., April 19—The Oakland municipal golf course will open for the 1946 season on Easter Sunday, April 21, it was announced by officials of the Oakland Golf Club.

William "Bill" Loeffler, of Pittsburgh, Pa., has been engaged as the golf pro for the season and he arrived in Oakland last week. He recently returned to civilian life from the army after spending three years in the Southwest Pacific. Loeffler is married and the father of two sons, 9 and 11. They will reside at the golf course.

For twelve years he was assistant to his father, Ernest Loeffler, at the Wildwood Country Club, Pittsburgh, and succeeded him there after his father's death. He also was employed at the Hil. Crest Country Club, New Kensington, Pa., and was a golf instructor at the Honus Wagner company, Pittsburgh.

Ira J. Bosley, president of the club, said the greens were in fine shape and most of the fairways had been rolled.

New York Importer Dies in Street Fight With Boxing Referee

NEW YORK, April 19 (AP) — A 58-year-old importer was injured fatally today, police said, in a predawn street argument with Arthur Donovan, nationally known boxing referee.

David S. Cocoran, an importer of Swedish glassware, died in Roosevelt hospital nine hours after, police said, he was struck down by Donovan at Fifth avenue and 57th street.

Abraham Solomon, attorney for Donovan, said in court, "Mr. Donovan must have been hit first, for his bridge work is loose."

Jordan Is Victor

The program attracted 523 paying customers. The gross gate was $1,343.

International Derby Winner Is Trained By Hugh Stevenson

Grover's Nesco Vickie, owned by Carl Grover, of Altoona, Pa., and trained at Ellerslie, Md., by Hugh Stevenson, captured top honors in the 13-inch bitch class in the International Beagle Federation Derby in Youngstown, Ohio, on April 10.

There were seventy-eight entries, an all-time record, necessitating two days to determine the winner of the $600 purse.

Stevenson has trained other winners and acts as judge at local field trials.

This is only the second time in his knowledge, Stevenson said, that a beagle from the eastern part of the country has won in this trial. The other dog was Potomac Pastime Pat, owned by Fulcher P. Smith, of Ellerslie.

Redlegs Acquire Outfielder West

Cincinnati Is Reported To Have Paid $25,000 to Boston

By TERRY FLYNN

CINCINNATI, April 19. (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds agree that big league outfielders are expensive articles, but they've blown nearly $500,000 on them in the past eight years and all they've got is a trio of question marks.

Maybe Max West, acquired yesterday from the Boston Braves for a reported $25,000, is the answer to Manager Bill McKechnie's prayer for an ideal outfielder. The Deacon isn't saying.

Mike McCormick, who hit .300 for the Reds in 1940, could be the ideal, or Al Libke, the $50,000 article purchased a couple of years ago.

That's the way the Redleg outfield stacks up today, but the experts will tell you West isn't a dashing outfielder, Libke leaves much to be desired in the field and McCormick hasn't played much ball since 1942 when he hit .237 in 40 games.

Goodman's best year was in 1938 when he clouted thirty homers and batted .292. He hit .323 the next year but connected for only seven home runs. He slowed down thereafter.

"Butch" LaNeve Will Oppose Mock Klein In $500 Dux Match

Mock Klein and William "Butch" LaNeve will clash Tuesday, April 23, in a ten-game duckpin match for a purse of $500.

The first five games will be rolled on the Diamond alleys, Virginia avenue, commencing at 6:45 p. m., while the other five games are scheduled for SS. Peter and Paul alleys, Fayette street, starting at 9:30 p. m.

April 23 is "Butch's" birthday and he hopes to be in fine fettle for the big money match.

Winton Is Favorite In Grand National

BUTLER, Md., April 19—Winton, Stuart S. Janney, Jr.s great timber topper, is highly favored to continue his sweep of Marylands cross-country racing fixtures in the Forty-fourth running tomorrow of the Grand National point-to-point.

This rugged three-mile amateur test over eighteen stiff fences in Western Run Valley about twenty miles northwest of Baltimore, has attracted seventeen entries, but the biggest question was whether any could give Winton a real run for the victory cup award.

County and state police are preparing to handle a crowd of about 15,000. Post time is 4 p. m.

Yankees Score Twice in Ninth To Defeat Nats

DiMaggio's Double Knots Score; Lindell's Fly Wins Game, 7-6

NEW YORK, April 19—(AP)—John Lindell, a former pitcher who is a sub outfielder with the New York Yanks, lofted a towering fly to center field in the last of the ninth today and scored Tommy Henrich with the winning run as the Yanks defeated Washington, 7 to 6, in Gotham's opening American league game that lured 54,826 fans.

Only one other previous opening day crowd ever topped this one and that was in 1923 when the Yankees inaugurated its stadium and attracted 72,200 fans.

Trailing 6-5 in their last turn at bat, and with ancient Johnny Niggeling, the Senators' fifth hurler on the slab, the Yankees quickly put two men on base. George Stirnweiss drew a walk and Henrich was hit by a pitched ball. Joe DiMaggio then lined a double off the left field wall, driving in Stirnweiss with the tying run and sending Henrich to third. Henrich then scored on Lindell's hoist. Box:

116 Enter Annual Boston Marathon

Gerry Cote, Three-Times Winner, Heads Field in Golden Event

BOSTON, April 19 (AP)—An international field of 116 patient plodders headed by three-times winner Gerry Cote of Canada will gather on a country lane in Hopkinton tomorrow for the Boston A.A.'s golden anniversary marathon.

The macadam classic of 26 miles, 385 yards, will start at high noon and end about two and a half hours later in Boston's back bay. Hundreds of thousands of spectators will line the tortuous hill and dale route to applaud the hardy runners, most of whom will acquire only stomach pains and a crop of blisters for their efforts.

Smiling, sinewy Cote, was the prerace favorite. He showed his heels to the field in 1940, '43 and '45 and says he is in excellent shape to try to crack the record of 2:26:51 1-5 set in 1942 by Milkman Joe Smith of Medford.

Cote will have three former winners at his side when the pack leaves Hopkinton — Johnny Kelley, the local favorite who won in 1935 and 1945; Tarzan Brown, Rhode Island Indian, victor in '36 and '39, and the veteran Clarence De Mar, seven-times winner from 1911 to 1930.

The international flavor is supplied by: Ken Bailey of England; Stylianos Kyriades of Greece, and Osward Kisson, who hails from Trinidad—where he holds the marathon record—but is studying printing in Toronto.

Others who will be closely watched include Lloyd Barstow of the Coast Guard, runner-up to Kelley last year; Don Heincke, Baltimore, and Charles Robbins of Boston, the national champion.

Tony Rios, Whom Ricker Sought for Carrero, Graziano Stablemate, Can't Be Found

Matchmaker "Vic" Ricker thought he had a classy main go lined up for Tuesday, April 30, when he opened negotiations with New York and Barberton, Ohio, fight managers to match Juan Carrero, Puerto Rican, and Tony Rios, sensational Mexican lightweight, but his plans struck a snag yesterday when he received a telegram from George Basco, Rios's manager, who stated that the Mexican disappeared after a match in Ohio and can't be located.

It seems that Rios, who can't speak a word of English, couldn't get along with his trainer, and after a fight with Willie Russell, which attracted an $8,000 gate, the Mexican skipped and hasn't been heard from since.

Ricker says he is still hopeful that Basco will catch up with Rios and have the latter agree to fight in Cumberland.

Rios has engaged in approximately fifty battles in Mexico and proved something of a sensation in fights south of the border. He drew houses of $4,000 and $8,000 in matches with Willie Russell at Cincinnati.

Carrero, a stablemate of Rocky Graziano, New York's knockout artist, comes highly recommended from a stable that includes some of the best club fighters in the country. The Puerto Rican lost a sensational ten-round fight to Ruby Kessler in New York recently.

Birds Get Campbell

CLEVELAND, April 19 (AP)—Clarence (Soup) Campbell, veteran outfielder, has been optioned to Baltimore of the International league, Vice President Roger Peckinpaugh of the Cleveland Indians announced today.

The Tribe management said Campbell, former major in the army air corps, requested a change that would allow him to play regularly.

West Virginia Grid Camp Opens in Keyser June 5

Potomac State Will Be Host to Mountaineers Two Weeks; 1946 Card Lists Ten Contests

West Virginia university will hold its June football camp at Potomac State School, Keyser, and approximately 100 persons, including the coaching staff and candidates for the Mountaineer squad will be quartered at the dormitory of the Keyser school during the two weeks' training grind, it was learned yesterday.

The camp will open on Wednesday, June 5, and the players will train for the two weeks' period under the watchful eye of William F. "Bill" Kern, head coach, and his staff of assistants. Roy M. "Legs" Hawley, athletic director of the Morgantown university, is also expected to attend the camp. Kern returns to West Virginia as head coach after a hitch in the navy, Ira Rodgers having taken over the coaching duties at the Mountaineer institution during his absence.

Facilities Are Approved

Coach Kern visited Keyser several days ago and reported to the university authorities that Potomac State School of West Virginia University seemed to offer all the facilities necessary for the summer workouts. The board of governors of the university approved the training site.

West Virginia held spring football practice in Morgantown and according to information from there he was disappointed because the boys who reported weren't of big-three college calibre. It was pointed out that such prewar players as Gene Corum, Howard Lewellen, Chester Spelock, Alva Richmond, Andy Clark and Warder Powell must return if the Mountaineers are to make a respectable showing. The Mountaineers have yet to attract the GI's to Morgantown.

The play of Jim Devonshire, 195 pounder from New Jersey, was most pleasing among the newcomers in spring drills and he is being spoken of already as a regular this fall regardless of who come back. Guard Amby Zubel, of Wheeling, stood out in drills, too, according to reports.

Spring and summer camps were necessary this year because of the stiff schedule to be tackled by the Mountaineers.

To Play Ten Games

A ten-game program is planned and nine contests already have been arranged. Six of the games will be played away from home.

The opener with a yet unnamed opponent will be played in Morgantown, September 21. The remainder of the schedule is as follows:

Sept. 28—Pitt, away.
Oct. 5—Waynesburg, home.
Oct. 12—Washington and Lee, at Charleston.
Oct. 18—Temple, away, night.
Oct. 26—Syracuse, home.
Nov. 2—U.S. Military Academy (Army), at West Point, N. Y.
Nov. 9—Fordham, home.
Nov. 16—Kentucky, away.
Nov. 23—Virginia, at Charlottesville, Va.

Catfish Are Stocked In Nearby Streams Of West Virginia

CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 19—The first state-wide distribution of channel catfish in the conservation commission's history will begin about May 1, Director Jack Shipman announces.

Purchase of 20,000 fish this year and a like number for stocking purposes for 1947 has been authorized from a $1,100,000 contingent appropriation voted by the 1945 legislature.

B. D. Wills, supervisor of the commission's hatcheries, said that more than 165,000 legal size trout will have been placed in streams by April 27 when the season opens. All designated trout waters were included in the stocking program which began March 4 and will continue through July 1, with the heavily fished streams having priority in the remainder of the program.

This year's quotas of channel catfish by streams and congressional districts include:

Second: Tygart river, 250; Tygart lake, 750; South Branch of Potomac, 500; Cheat lake, 500; Cheat river, 250; Cacapon river, 500; Greenbrier river, 500; Big Sandy (Preston county) 250; Elk river, 250; Patterson creek, 250.

McCluskey, 34, Will Attempt Comeback In Penn Relays

PHILADELPHIA, April 19 (AP) — Joe McCluskey, who was winning steeplechase and distance running titles when most of the present day athletes were in grammer school, will attempt a comeback in the Penn relay carnival.

Joe lists his age as 34 but he began running 17 years ago. He informed the University of Pennsylvania today he'll run in the two-mile special race at the relays' fifty-second annual renewal April 26 and 27 on Franklin field.

Now a lieutenant commander at the New London, Conn., submarine base, Joe has a record of running the two miles in nine minutes and 15 seconds, less than three seconds off the relay record established by Greg Rice in 1944.

Terps Lose to Spiders On Wild Pitch, 4-3

RICHMOND, Va., April 19 (AP)—A wild pitch in the ninth inning gave the University of Richmond Spiders a 4-to-3 victory over University of Maryland in a Southern conference baseball game today.

Harry Hughes, whose mates had come from behind on two occasions to tie the count, cut loose with a low pitch with two outs and Pat Fenlon, the Spider shortstop, on third. The pitch had hardly got past Catcher Don Gleasner when Fenlon tallied the winning run. Score:

MARYLAND	000 002 100—3	6	2
RICHMOND	200 001 001—4	5	1

Feel that Union Could Get Them Out of the "Slavery" Class

PITTSBURGH, April 19. (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates come home to a union-conscious town today and expressed themselves—with few dissenting voices—in favor of a players' guild to pinch-hit for them against the owners.

The majority in favor made this reservation, however — they don't like the idea of strikes in their prospective "labor league" any better than they like the variety the umpires call on them. Their feeling was that players should be united but that difficulties should be ironed out by parleying instead of picketing.

Players in sympathy with the guild idea—none wanted to be quoted—feel that united representation could get them out of the "slavery" class in contract terms.

PREAKNESS STAKES MAY BRING RECORD PURSE OF $140,000

BALTIMORE, April 19—(AP)—The Maryland Jockey Club announced today that five supplementary entries had been made for the $100,000-added Preakness Stakes at Pimlico May 11, which might boost the gross purse to a world's record of around $140,000.

The five new arrivals for the mile and three sixteenths classic are Hampden, from William Du Pont, Jr.'s Foxcatcher Farm; Assault, from the King Ranch of Robert Kleburg; Bobanet Stable's Marine Victory; R. S. McLaughlin's Wee Admiral and E. P. Taylor's Windfield.

It cost owners of the supplementary entries $3,000 each to nominate their hopefuls, and the present value of the race is $129,460. If ten horses run, paying an additional $1,000 each as a starters fee, the total would surpass the $137,900 gross purse for the 1946 Santa Anita Handicap.

Fire Damages Seats In Baltimore Stadium

BALTIMORE, April 19 (AP)—A fire early today in the municipal stadium was discovered by a night watchman locked in the structure—but he shouted to a pedestrian and an alarm was sounded.

About nine seats were destroyed by the fire, which did not cause enough damage to interrupt the baseball game scheduled tonight between Baltimore and Rochester.

Press and radio facilities also were damaged but it was expected they would be repaired in time for the game.

R. Brooke Maxwell, superintendent of parks, said he was investigating the matter—including the possibility of having a fire alarm installed inside the stadium.

Pittsburgh Pirates Are Without Homes; Fletcher Uses Tent

PITTSBURGH, April 19 (AP)—It'll be tenting tonight in old Forbes Field unless another solution is offered a gang of "homeless" Pittsburgh Pirates who came home today and found themselves in the street.

Ebullient Elbie Fletcher erected a makeshift tent of a tarpaulin and baseball bats in Forbes field, saying it was better than sleeping in the streets.

"I wish I was a sleepwalker," moaned Pitcher Rip Sewell. "At least I'd get some rest while I'm walking."

Winner Will Get $22,600 If Fourteen Go to Post Today

NEW YORK, April 19 (AP)—The race that has produced five Kentucky Derby winners in sixteen years — the Wood Memorial — has its twenty-third running at Jamaica tomorrow, and there are at least two among the fourteen nominees who would cause no great consternation by winning the necklace of roses again this year.

They are the Delaware Dandy, William Dupont, Jr.'s Hampden, a waltzing ten-length winner his last time out, and the Texas speedster, Robert J. Kleberg, Jr.'s Assault, who clicked by four lengths in his 1946 debut.

Despite the presence of such contenders as Mrs. Elizabeth Graham's big four, Charlie Fisher's Spy Song and William Helis's Rippey, already on the derby grounds, no one would be too astonished if either of these two won tomorrow and then went on to repeat the trick Gallant Fox, Twenty Grand, Johnstown and Count Fleet did when they whipped home in the Wood and took the big pot out in the blue grass. It was done a year ago by Hoop, Jr.

Winner May Get $22,600

This year the Wood is all dressed up with a $25,000-added price tag—of which the winner will get a $22,600 paycheck if all fourteen go to the post—and gives the three-year olds their first chance of the season to go a mile-and-a-sixteenth under the derby load of 126 pounds.

And while Hampden and Assault figure to be the hot horses for the crowd of 50,000 or so expected, there are three or four others among the dozen derby candidates in the field of fourteen who might win.

Among this threatening set are Round View, who won the Flamingo at Hialeah for polo-player Laddie Sanford over the winter; Alamond, who took the mile-and-a-sixteenth Experimental for Cleveland accountant Al Ernst a week ago, and Islam Prince, the stretch-running streak from the barn of J. Ben Theall of New Orleans, who has come with a rush to finish second in his last two starts.

Outsiders May Surprise

The outsiders, who might conceivably pull a big rabbit out of a little hat on this Easter week-end—are the Virginia-born Cedar Creek, owned by automobile man Walter Chrysler, Jr.; Mrs. R. D. Patterson's tall, fast-closing Alworth, and a couple of recent disappointments—Robert Bruce Livie's Marine Victory and Mrs. Vera S. Bragg's Mist O'Gold.

Armed Is Choice In 'Graw Feature

Dodson Will Ride Ace of Calumet Farm in $20,000 Handicap

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 19 (AP) — The combination of of Calumet Farm's Armed and Jockey Doug Dodson should be enough to scare six other entries in the $20,000-added Philadelphia Handicap here tomorrow off the track.

Armed, heavily favored in the six-furlongs Harford handicap here on opening day only to drop a length and a half decision to Bobanet Stable's Bobanet, should take the mile and a sixteenth Philadelphia in a breeze. He was listed at the probable odds of 3 to 5.

Tomorrow's race will be virtually a re-running of the Harford as far as favorites are concerned, since Bobanet and Christiana Stable's Alexis, also are entered. Alexis was third in the Harford.

In that event, Jockey Aubrey Snellings had Armed going like a whirlwind down the stretch, but a slow start allowed the speedy Bobanet to hold his advantage. Armed, after fighting to break through at the head of the stretch, needed only another 20 yards to win. He'll have two and a half extra furlongs tomorrow.

Dodson, regular rider of the 5-year-old Calumet handicap star, came here from Kentucky to handle Armed, which was handed top impost of 129, same as for the Harford.

Bobanet's package was lifted three pounds to 119, including Jockie Donnie Padgett. Alexis, running as an entry with his stablemates Service Pilot and Megogo, was assigned 112. Service Pilot gets in with 107 and Megogo 109.

Others named for this thirty-third running of the stake were William Helis' Pindus, 111; and A. F. Plock's Ellis, 115.

Jimenez Knocks Out Shapiro in Third

NEW YORK, April 19, (AP)—Julio Jimenez, Mexican lightweight, knocked out Maxie Shapiro, of New York, in the third round of the scheduled ten-round main event on the weekly boxing program at the St. Nicholas Arena tonight. Jimenez weighed 138½ to his opponent's 132½.

They divided the first two rounds but in the third the Mexican jolted Shapiro with a right to the head and put him away with a right uppercut to the chin at 1:29.

Ted Williams Is Terrific, Hit .500 against Senators

Griffith Says Sox Ace May Become Greatest Hitter of All Time; Ted Dislikes Passes

By BUS HAM

WASHINGTON, April 19 (AP)—About a ball player named Ted Williams, Boston Red Sox outfielder:

"I think he's going to be the greatest hitter of all time," said Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington Senators, after watching Williams pace his team to a clean-sweep of the opening American League series.

What Williams did in that series: batted .500, including a 430-foot homer into the left center bleachers, a screaming triple and two lusty doubles—all this while drawing four intentional passes.

And how would Griffith, once quite a crafty hurler in his own right, pitch to the 6-foot 3, 27-year old bombardier:

"I'd throw him nothing but blooper balls—and I mean real high, lazy bloopers," Griffith said. "Then he'd have to supply his own power, take a little run at the ball and be off balance."

After a capacity turnout of 30,000 opening day, 10,000 fans attended the second and third games of the Senators-Red Sox series.

"That never happened before here," club officials said, "and those fans came out to see Williams hit."

As for Ted himself, he was somewhat annoyed at being purposely passed four times.

"They ought to do something about that passing business," he told a reporter. "It not only deprives a batter of a chance to hit, but bases on balls don't show up worth a hoot in the records.

At the rate Williams has started drawing free tickets so early in the season, he may break Babe Ruth's all-time record of 170, set in 1932.

Oakland Golf Club Will Open Sunday

Bill Loeffler Engaged as Pro at Garrett County Course

OAKLAND, Md., April 19—The Oakland municipal golf course will open for the 1946 season on Easter Sunday, April 21, it was announced by officials of the Oakland Golf Club.

William "Bill" Loeffler, of Pittsburgh, Pa., has been engaged as the golf pro for the season and he arrived in Oakland last week. He recently returned to civilian life from the army after spending three years in the Southwest Pacific. Loeffler is married and the father of two sons, 9 and 11. They will reside at the golf course.

For twelve years he was assistant to his father, Ernest Loeffler, at the Wildwood Country Club, Pittsburgh, and succeeded him there after his father's death. He also was employed at the Hil. Crest Country Club, New Kensington, Pa., and was a golf instructor at the Honus Wagner company, Pittsburgh.

Ira J. Bosley, president of the club, said the greens were in fine shape and most of the fairways had been rolled.

New York Importer Dies in Street Fight With Boxing Referee

NEW YORK, April 19 (AP) — A 58-year-old importer was injured fatally today, police said, in a predawn street argument with Arthur Donovan, nationally known boxing referee.

David S. Cocoran, an importer of Swedish glassware, died in Roosevelt hospital nine hours after, police said, he was struck down by Donovan at Fifth avenue and 57th street.

When admitted to the hospital, attaches said Corcoran had suffered a possible skull fracture and stroke.

The two men were friends, authorities said, and had visited several night clubs and taverns during the night with Corcoran's 24-year-old son, David S. Corcoran, Jr.

Abraham Solomon, attorney for Donovan, said in court, "Mr. Donovan must have been hit first, for his bridge work is loose."

Jordan Is Victor

The program attracted 523 paying customers. The gross gate was $1,343.

International Derby Winner Is Trained By Hugh Stevenson

Grover's Nesco Vickie, owned by Carl Grover, of Altoona, Pa., and trained at Ellerslie, Md., by Hugh Stevenson, captured top honors in the 13-inch bitch class in the International Beagle Federation Derby in Youngstown, Ohio, on April 10.

There were seventy-eight entries, an all-time record, necessitating two days to determine the winner of the $600 purse.

Stevenson has trained other winners and acts as judge at local field trials.

This is only the second time in his knowledge, Stevenson said, that a beagle from the eastern part of the country has won in this trial. The other dog was Potomac Pastime Pat, owned by Fulcher P. Smith, of Ellerslie.

Redlegs Acquire Outfielder West

Cincinnati Is Reported To Have Paid $25,000 to Boston

By TERRY FLYNN

CINCINNATI, April 19. (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds agree that big league outfielders are expensive articles, but they've blown nearly $500,000 on them in the past eight years and all they've got is a trio of question marks.

Maybe Max West, acquired yesterday from the Boston Braves for a reported $25,000, is the answer to Manager Bill McKechnie's prayer for an ideal outfielder. The Deacon isn't saying.

Mike McCormick, who hit .300 for the Reds in 1940, could be the ideal, or Al Libke, the $50,000 article purchased a couple of years ago.

That's the way the Redleg outfield stacks up today, but the experts will tell you West isn't a dashing outfielder, Libke leaves much to be desired in the field and McCormick hasn't played much ball since 1942 when he hit .237 in 40 games.

The Reds began their expensive search for outfielders back at the beginning of 1938 when McKechnie took over as manager. Only one man, Ival Goodman, lived up to the Deacon's standards of ideal.

Goodman's best year was in 1938 when he clouted thirty homers and batted .292. He hit .323 the next year but connected for only seven home runs. He slowed down thereafter.

"Butch" LaNeve Will Oppose Mock Klein In $500 Dux Match

Mock Klein and William "Butch" LaNeve will clash Tuesday, April 23, in a ten-game duckpin match for a purse of $500.

The first five games will be rolled on the Diamond alleys, Virginia avenue, commencing at 6:45 p. m., while the other five games are scheduled for SS. Peter and Paul alleys, Fayette street, starting at 9:30 p. m.

April 23 is "Butch's" birthday and he hopes to be in fine fettle for the big money match.

Winton Is Favorite In Grand National

BUTLER, Md., April 19—Winton, Stuart S. Janney, Jr.s great timber topper, is highly favored to continue his sweep of Marylands cross-country racing fixtures in the Forty-fourth running tomorrow of the Grand National point-to-point.

This rugged three-mile amateur test over eighteen stiff fences in Western Run Valley about twenty miles northwest of Baltimore, has attracted seventeen entries, but the biggest question was whether any could give Winton a real run for the victory cup award.

County and state police are preparing to handle a crowd of about 15,000. Post time is 4 p. m.

Dodgers Beat Army

WEST POINT, N. Y., April 19 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers defeated the United States Military Academy baseball team, 7-3, today in an exhibition game played before an overflow crowd of 3,000, including a group of wounded veterans from Halloran General Hospital. Score:

BROOKLYN (N)	000 331 000—7	6	5
ARMY	010 000 200—3	7	5

Roy, Moulder (5) and Anderson, Padgett (5), Sandlock (7); Tully, Howe (5), Hayes (7) and Cairns, Benedict (5), Poole (7).

Yankees Score Twice in Ninth To Defeat Nats

DiMaggio's Double Knots Score; Lindell's Fly Wins Game, 7-6

NEW YORK, April 19—(AP)—John Lindell, a former pitcher who is a sub outfielder with the New York Yanks, lofted a towering fly to center field in the last of the ninth today and scored Tommy Henrich with the winning run as the Yanks defeated Washington, 7 to 6, in Gotham's opening American league game that lured 54,826 fans.

Only one other previous opening day crowd ever topped this one and that was in 1923 when the Yankees inaugurated its stadium and attracted 72,200 fans.

Trailing 6-5 in their last turn at bat, and with ancient Johnny Niggeling, the Senators' fifth hurler on the slab, the Yankees quickly put two men on base. George Stirnweiss drew a walk and Henrich was hit by a pitched ball. Joe DiMaggio then lined a double off the left field wall, driving in Stirnweiss with the tying run and sending Henrich to third. Henrich then scored on Lindell's hoist. Box:

Mexican, Sought for Bout Here Apr. 30, Disappears

ENTERS MARATHON

BRITAIN'S cross-country champion, Kenneth Baily, is in the United States to participate in the annual Boston marathon which will be held today. He is among the 116 entries. Baily is a tax collector back home.

Tony Rios, Whom Ricker Sought for Carrero, Graziano Stablemate, Can't Be Found

Matchmaker "Vic" Ricker thought he had a classy main go lined up for Tuesday, April 30, when he opened negotiations with New York and Barberton, Ohio, fight managers to match Juan Carrero, Puerto Rican, and Tony Rios, sensational Mexican lightweight, but his plans struck a snag yesterday when he received a telegram from George Basco, Rios's manager, who stated that the Mexican disappeared after a match in Ohio and can't be located.

It seems that Rios, who can't speak a word of English, couldn't get along with his trainer, and after a fight with Willie Russell, which attracted an $8,000 gate, the Mexican skipped and hasn't been heard from since.

Ricker says he is still hopeful that Basco will catch up with Rios and have the latter agree to fight in Cumberland.

Rios has engaged in approximately fifty battles in Mexico and proved something of a sensation in fights south of the border. He drew houses of $4,000 and $8,000 in matches with Willie Russell at Cincinnati.

Carrero, a stablemate of Rocky Graziano, New York's knockout artist, comes highly recommended from a stable that includes some of the best club fighters in the country. The Puerto Rican lost a sensational ten-round fight to Ruby Kessler in New York recently.

Birds Get Campbell

CLEVELAND, April 19 (AP)—Clarence (Soup) Campbell, veteran outfielder, has been optioned to Baltimore of the International league, Vice President Roger Peckinpaugh of the Cleveland Indians announced today.

The Tribe management said Campbell, former major in the army air corps, requested a change that would allow him to play regularly.

Gerry Cote, Three-Times Winner, Heads Field in Golden Event

BOSTON, April 19 (AP)—An international field of 116 patient plodders headed by three-times winner Gerry Cote of Canada will gather on a country lane in Hopkinton tomorrow for the Boston A.A.'s golden anniversary marathon.

The macadam classic of 26 miles, 385 yards, will start at high noon and end about two and a half hours later in Boston's back bay. Hundreds of thousands of spectators will line the tortuous hill and dale route to applaud the hardy runners, most of whom will acquire only stomach pains and a crop of blisters for their efforts.

Smiling, sinewy Cote, was the pre-race favorite. He showed his heels to the field in 1940, '43 and '45 and says he is in excellent shape to try to crack the record of 2:26:51 1-5 set in 1942 by Milkman Joe Smith of Medford.

Cote will have three former winners at his side when the pack leaves Hopkinton — Johnny Kelley, the local favorite who won in 1935 and 1945; Tarzan Brown, Rhode Island Indian, victor in '36 and '39, and the veteran Clarence De Mar, seven-times winner from 1911 to 1930.

The international flavor is supplied by: Ken Bailey of England; Stylianos Kyriades of Greece, and Osward Kisson, who hails from Trinidad—where he holds the marathon record—but is studying printing in Toronto.

Others who will be closely watched include Lloyd Barstow of the Coast Guard, runner-up to Kelley last year; Don Heincke, Baltimore, and Charles Robbins of Boston, the national champion.

See Asserts He Tried To Assist James S. O'Neal

Takes Exception to Statements Made by News Stand Operator

By failing to comply with the federally prescribed regulations of the Randolph-Sheppard act, James O'Neal, blind news stand operator in the postoffice building, has created his own plight, Charles M. See, said yesterday in indicating that O'Neal's stand in the present issue has been motivated in part at least by selfish interests.

O'Neal, who has operated the postoffice stand for eleven years, has refused to sign an agreement with the workshop called for by federal law, on the grounds that he is operating his own legitimate business and that no one has the right to receive any of the profits except himself.

Answering O'Neal's reply to a statement by a News reporter that was published in Thursday's paper as to whether See, the manager of the blind vending stands in Maryland, had given him any help, See said "I tried to help Mr. O'Neal as much as a year ago by advising him that he should avail himself of the opportunity to use the advantages offered by the agency control plan for Maryland, namely the various kinds of insurance offered in that plan."

Speaks as Individual

In advising O'Neal to make use of these advantages, See said that "he would also be making it possible, indirectly, for other blind men to be placed in vending stands since the small administration fee deducted helps to establish stands for other blind people."

"Frankly, the reason I haven't called on Mr. O'Neal recently is due to the fact that he has resented me ever since we started the blind man on the stand on Union street", See said. "Previously, he likewise resented the establishment of the stand now in opration at the court house."

Making it emphatic that he was speaking as an individual and not as the manager of the blind vending Stands, See said, "however, I would like to point out that Mr. O'Neal did not resent the Maryland Workshop for the Blind when I obtained permission from the mayor and city council to operate the present stand in the Public Safety Building since the person operating that stand was his brother."

In indicating that O'Neal's stand on the present issue was motivated in part, at least, by "selfishness", See said "I am aware that on one occasion he went to one of the blind opertor's homes to try and discourage him from operating a stand in one of the public buildings."

Tries To Help Blind

See also said that "the $15 that has been so much publicized is the guaranteed smallest amount that any blind operator will receive weekly under the plan, however, if the profits of a stand go to $50, $100 or $500, the operator will receive all of that with the exception of a very small administration fee, which fee is used for various insurances and also in helping to establish new stands."

In answering what he interpreted as a criticism on his failure to call on O'Neal and give him assistance, See declared, "I have always tried to help the blind people and underprivileged I was successful in having a bill passed in the legislature enabling blind people to operate stores and sell all legal merchandise with the exception of intoxicants by obtaining a $6 license, plus a clerk's fee, which represents a saving on an average of $40 or $50, in opening stores. Mr. O'Neal took advantage of that bill, I believe."

Cumberland Cab Driver Donates Electric Pump

Officials of the refuge state that Morse is regarded as one of the best friends of the institution and that in the past the Cumberland man has secured a quantity of useful gifts including clothing, food, toys and candy.

During one of his visits, Morse noticed the electric pump that distributes water through the home was leaking. After it could not be repaired he delivered a pump that cost him $118.50 which he donated, and later had it installed.

Morse said yesterday that he planned to take a number of Easter baskets to the children in the orphanage sometime today.

DARING RAID RECALLED—The recent publication of General George Crook's autobiography, a hitherto unsuspected volume found among the general's personal papers in the Army war college, has caused interest in nearby West Virginia where some of the older inhabitants are recalling with relish that Crook was one of two Yankee generals captured in Cumberland in 1865 on the occasion of Capt. Jesse McNeill's famous raid. The NEWS is indebted to V. F. Alkire, of near Romney, and to his copies of the Confederate Veteran of 1906 for the above information. The sketch was published in the Veteran and shows McNeill's route in and out of Cumberland with notes by his scout, Sgt. John B. Fay. While the map is not scaled and has hachure marks in lieu of contouring, the Rangers seem to have made effective use of it the night of February 20, 1865. The drawing of McNeill is also from a small cut in the Confederate Veteran. The copy of the map and the drawing of McNeill was made by James B. Craig, of the News Staff.

Man Is Injured While Alighting From Train Here

Six Persons Are Treated in Local Hospitals after Accidents

William J. Clair, 26, 112 Frederick street, was in a "good" condition last evening in Memorial hospital where he was admitted yesterday for treatment of a possible fracture of the skull and a puncture wound of the chin suffered when he fell while alighting from a B. and O. freight train at the Frederick street crossing.

Police said Clair, employed at the Coney Island Lunch Room, Liberty street, was picked up beside the crossing where he missed his footing as he was alighting from the train about 9:30 a. m.

Railroaders working near the scene of the accident said Clair, in getting off the train, apparently fell over a light switch, tripped on a grate and struck his head against the blacktop on the corner of the crossing.

Treated yesterday morning in Memorial hospital were Stanley Wilfong, 32, 18 Thomas street, an employe of the George F. Hazelwood Company, who mashed his right index finger while working at the Celanese plant, and Mrs. Anna Webster, 31, Route 3, Keyser, W. Va., who had the small finger of her right hand mashed when a window in an emery Coach Line bus fell on it. E-rays were taken.

Raid of Rangers on Cumberland Is Reviewed by West Virginian

V. P. Alkire Gives News Reporter Interesting Information on History Made by Capt. Jesse McNeill and His Troops

By JAMES B. CRAIG

General Crook's autobiography, an unsuspected document recently discovered by a sergeant among the general's personal papers in the Army War college archives, has caused a quickening of interest on the part of some of the older residents of nearby West Virginia who are recalling with relish that Crook was one of two Yankee generals removed from their beds in Cumberland the morning of February 21, 1865, and carried off by Capt. Jesse McNeill and his hard riding Rangers.

"Did he mention that in his book?" white-haired V. F. Alkire, a former Mineral county sheriff, inquired slyly with just the suggestion of a twinkle in his eye one recent Sunday morning after he had invited the writer into his comfortable home, the old Taylor Homestead, near Romney.

It was a pleasant spring Sunday. Outside, there was a faint perfume of apple blossoms from the trees on the big hill back of the Alkire home. Inside, Alkire pulled his rocker up to the fire and indicated there was nothing he enjoyed more than reminiscing about the late unpleasantness between the states. And anyway, the McNeill's were relatives of his.

"It was really old Capt. John McNeill's idea in the first place," Alkire said. "He had cherished the

Local Man Learns Of Sister's Death In Kavalla, Greece

In a letter received Thursday from relatives in Greece, Chris Parsoudis, 414 Lehigh street, learned of the death of his sister, Mrs. Mary Zaharia, 47, wife of Anastasis Zaharia, in Kavalla, Greece, January 7. She had been ill since December 15.

Besides her husband and her brother here, she is survived by one daughter, Mary, 16.

The communication also disclosed that the Zaharia family still has received none of the fifteen packages sent to them and several other relatives in Kavalla by the Parsoudis family last November 14.

From this, and other letters received recently, the Parsoudis family know that their relatives are eagerly awaiting the packages which contain food and clothing which they need so badly.

All the letters, Parsoudis said, report that the people of Kavalla are on a starvation diet and that they manage to keep alive only through UNRRA aid. The five pounds of flour that UNRRA gives each month allows a little bread each day, Parsoudis said.

The letters also disclose the existence of a vicious black market. "If we had money," they write," we could buy anything we want in the Black Market, but money is scarce." Three pounds of flour costs seventy-five cents in American money, Parsoudis was told.

Local Veteran Who Lost His Sight In Germany Will Marry Next Month

Joseph Pratt Met Fiance while Home on Convalescent Furlough

A local World War II Veteran, who lost his sight when German Artillery shattered a brick house in which he was taking shelter, will marry a girl that he has never seen, next month in St. Mary's Catholic church rectory here.

Joseph William Pratt, 251 Williams street, and Miss Della V. Busch, 412 Park street, who met while Bill was here on a convalescent furlough last July have decided that finding a place to live after they are married is the biggest problem they will have to face for sometime.

Pratt, serving with the 654th Tank Destroyer Battalion, went into action shortly after D-day and fought on almost every battle front on the European continent including the Battle of the Bulge. He was wounded March 28, 1945, after his outfit joined the Ninth army on the eastern side of the Rhine. A corporal and an anti-tank gunner, he recalls that he was taking a rest in a brick house when German artillery, opened fire and shattered one of the walls. The brick struck him full in the face and destroyed the sight in both eyes. Two of his buddies, who were with him at the time, suffered slight wounds.

The wounded veteran was returned April 17, 1945, and sent to Dibble General hospital, California. It was while he was on furlough here from this hospital that he met Miss Busch. According to the bride-elect, she was visiting Mrs. J. S. Minke, who is her Sunday School teacher and Pratt's aunt, one evening while he was there. After Pratt returned to a rehabilitation camp, "we just kept on writing," Miss Busch said," and when he got his discharge last November and returned home we began going together.

A bit surprised at the fact her coming marriage was creating any excitement, she couldn't see anything unusual about it. "Plenty of people get married" was her answer to the whole thing.

Miss Busch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. C. Busch, Plumville, Pa., is employed in the finished fabric warehouse department of the Celanese Corporation of America, Pratt, who was employed at the Celanese before entering service in 1941, is waiting for final approval of the Maryland Workshop for the Blind before completing plans to open a confection stand in one of the local hospitals.

The ex-corporal admitted that he has attended the local movies once in a while, but doesn't find them too interesting. "The movies now

Mrs. Mary C. Johnson, Dormitory Matron at "Y" since 1912, Resigns

By MARY LOUISE BUZZELL

Although she retired officially April 1 after thirty-three years as YMCA dormitory matron here, Mrs. Mary C. Johnson, 11 Frederick street, had to be called from her duties on the third floor at Central YMCA to be interviewed yesterday afternoon.

Tiny, white-haired Mrs. Johnson, who observed her seventieth birthday the day she handed in her resignation, explained that the "Y" has become a second home to her and that she doesn't want to stop working there altogether.

Began Work In 1912

"It was September 12, 1912, during Homecoming week in Cumberland, when I went to work for the 'Y'," Mrs. Johnson said. "It was on a Wednesday, I believe. I had been helping out a neighbor, Mrs. Annie Huffman, who was doing part-time cleaning work at the building, and she got sick, so I took over her work."

At that time, Mrs. Johnson worked as dormitory maid and helped out in the dining room and kitchen. She recalls that her duties included dusting and cleaning a schoolroom which was used for night classes in typing and shorthand, one of the pioneer classes of that type in Cumberland.

In the old YMCA building there were about twelve to fifteen dormitory rooms, and Mrs. Johnson "did them up" every day. When the present YMCA was opened in 1925, she said, William H. Lewis, Frostburg, who was then YMCA secretary, offered her the pick of the rooms she would have to take care of.

"I wanted to have some privacy, so I took the third floor," Mrs. Johnson said.

Rep. J. Glenn Beall and Jennings Randolph Testify before Committee

Rep. J. Glenn Beall announced yesterday that army engineers recommended to the House Flood Control committee, at a hearing in Washington yesterday that $2,100,000 be provided in the flood control bill for completion of the Savage River Dam. Rep. Beall, who is a member af the committee, also testified yesterday along with Rep. Jennings Randolph, of West Virginit.

Beall said yesterday that he would do his best to see to it that the item is included in a flood bill. He said that as a usual thing the committee acts favorably upon recommendations of engineers and he feels certain the committee will accept the proposal.

Brig. Gen. R. C. Crawford, assistant to the chief engineer, testified before the committee and according to Rep. Beall "very definitely" backed the Savage river project. It was pointed out by the congressman that the dam will bring direct benefits to the 30,000 persons in the Keyser, Luke, Westernport and Piedmont areas and will offer material aid in eliminating Potomac river pollution.

Gen. Crawford told the committee that prospective benefits justify completion now.

The two congressmen also made public a report on the project submitted to the committee by Lt. Gen. R. A. Wheeler, chief of engineers.

In the report to Chairman Whittington (D-Miss) of the Flood Control committee, Wheeler declared completion of the dam, on which work was stopped early in 1942, would have estimated annual benefits of $182,700.

He broke them down this way: Pollution abatement, $45,000; increased power $5,000; improved water supply, $130,000; flood control, $2,700.

"It is probable that the above figures are somewhat low and would be increased by a more thorough canvas of the situation," Wheeler wrote. "It is apparent, however, that the completion of the project is amply justified even on these partial benefits. x x x"

Based On Resurvey

The report was based on a resurvey of benefits and costs made at the request of Beall and Randolph. Engineers previously had said the flood control benefits alone did not justify completion.

"The Savage river dam is a unit in the comprehensive plan for the development of the water resources of the Potomac river basin as presented by the division and district engineers in their recent report on

See Asserts He Tried To Assist James S. O'Neal

Takes Exception to Statements Made by News Stand Operator

By failing to comply with the federally prescribed regulations of the Randolph-Sheppard act, James O'Neal, blind news stand operator in the postoffice building, has created his own plight, Charles M. See, said yesterday in indicating that O'Neal's stand in the present issue has been motivated in part at least by selfish interests.

O'Neal, who has operated the postoffice stand for eleven years, has refused to sign an agreement with the workshop called for by federal law, on the grounds that he is operating his own legitimate business and that no one has the right to receive any of the profits except himself.

Answering O'Neal's reply to a statement by a News reporter that was published in Thursday's paper as to whether See, the manager of the blind vending stands in Maryland, had given him any help, See said "I tried to help Mr. O'Neal as much as a year ago by advising him that he should avail himself of the opportunity to use the advantages offered by the agency control plan for Maryland, namely the various kinds of insurance offered in that plan."

Speaks as Individual

In advising O'Neal to make use of these advantages, See said that "he would also be making it possible, indirectly, for other blind men to be placed in vending stands since the small administration fee deducted helps to establish stands for other blind people."

"Frankly, the reason I haven't called on Mr. O'Neal recently is due to the fact that he has resented me ever since we started the blind man on the stand on Union street", See said. "Previously, he likewise resented the establishment of the stand now in opration at the court house."

Making it emphatic that he was speaking as an individual and not as the manager of the blind vending Stands, See said, "however, I would like to point out that Mr. O'Neal did not resent the Maryland Workshop for the Blind when I obtained permission from the mayor and city council to operate the present stand in the Public Safety Building since the person operating that stand was his brother."

In indicating that O'Neal's stand on the present issue was motivated in part, at least, by "selfishness", See said "I am aware that on one occasion he went to one of the blind opertor's homes to try and discourage him from operating a stand in one of the public buildings."

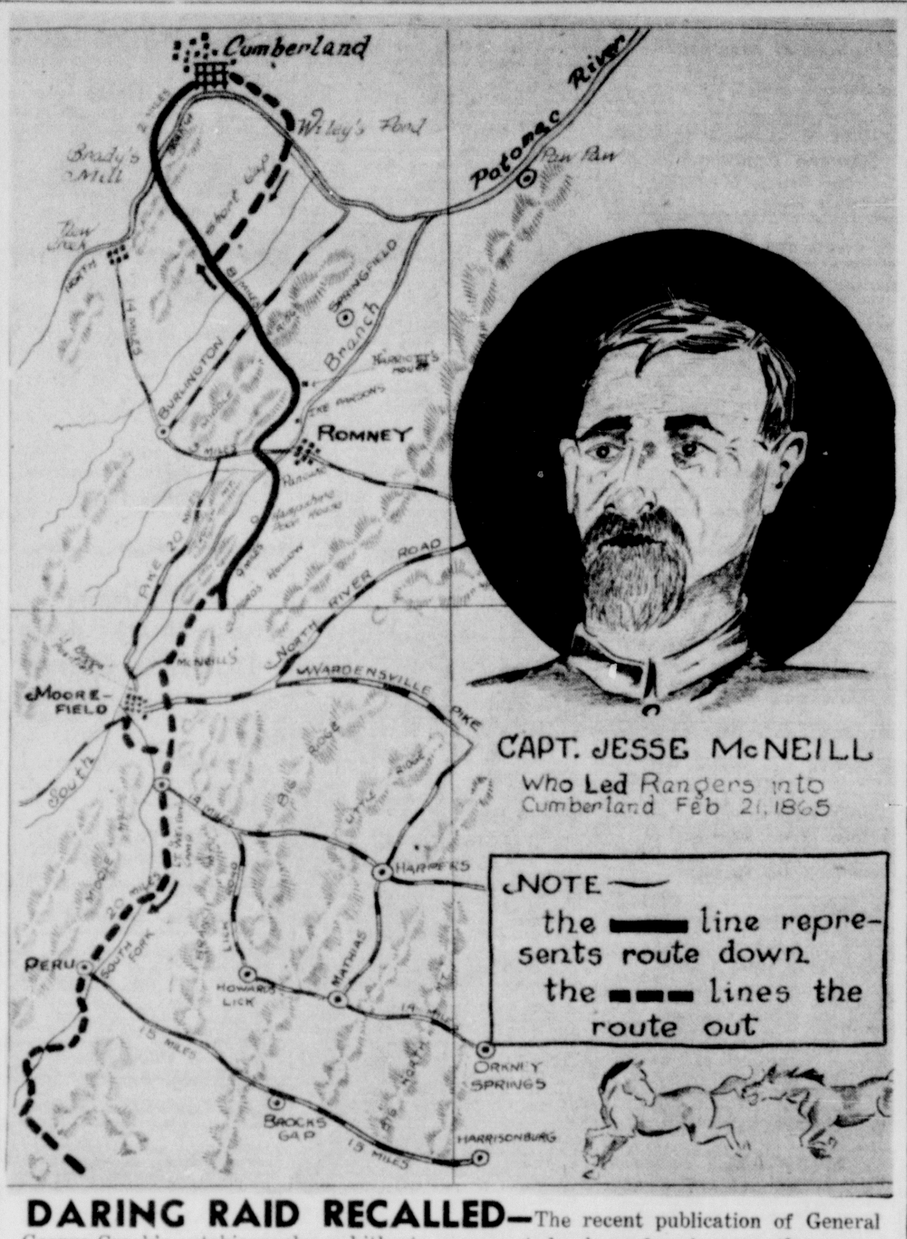
See also said that "the $15 that has been so much publicized is the guaranteed smallest amount that any blind operator will receive weekly under the plan, however, if the profits of a stand go to $50, $100 or $500, the operator will receive all of that with the exception of a very small administration fee, which fee is used for various insurances and also in helping to establish new stands."

In answering what he interpreted as a criticism on his failure to call on O'Neal and give him assistance, See declared, "I have always tried to help the blind people and underprivileged I was successful in having a bill passed in the legislature enabling blind people to operate stores and sell all legal merchandise with the exception of intoxicants by obtaining a $6 license, plus a clerk's fee, which represents a saving on an average of $40 or $50, in opening stores. Mr. O'Neal took advantage of that bill, I believe."



DARING RAID RECALLED—The recent publication of General George Crook's autobiography, a hitherto unsuspected volume found among the general's personal papers in the Army war college, has caused interest in nearby West Virginia where some of the older inhabitants are recalling with relish that Crook was one of two Yankee generals captured in Cumberland in 1865 on the occasion of Capt. Jesse McNeill's famous raid. The NEWS is indebted to V. F. Alkire, of near Romney, and to his copies of the Confederate Veteran of 1906 for the above information. The sketch was published in the Veteran and shows McNeill's route in and out of Cumberland with notes by his scout, Sgt. John B. Fay. While the map is not scaled and has hachure marks in lieu of contouring, the Rangers seem to have made effective use of it the night of February 20, 1865. The drawing of McNeill is also from a small cut in the Confederate Veteran. The copy of the map and the drawing of McNeill was made by James B. Craig, of the News Staff.

Plans have been completed for the second anniversary celebration of the Young Men's Republican Club, to be held April 30, at 6:30 p. m. in the recreation hall of Centre street Methodist Church, W. Ed. Eichner, chairman of arrangements said last night.

Mayor Theodore R. McKelden of Baltimore, candidate for the nomination of governor on the Republican ticket, will be guest speaker, and assures the local committee he has arranged his schedule so he can be here.

McKeldin will be introduced by Mayor Thomas S. Post, who will also deliver a short address of welcome. Lewis M. Wilson, local attorney, and one-time city councilman and city solicitor, will be master of ceremonies. The Rev. H. Hall Sharp, pastor of St. Luke's Lutheran church will give the invocation.

Eichner said last night that a program of entertainment has been arranged to follow the turkey dinner, and will include several vocal selections, including the "Harmonizers Trio." This group of young women singers were guests at the last anniversary dinner held in the Shrine club, and are returning this year at popular request of the membership.

Invitations have been extended to other Republican clubs in the county, Eichner said, and tickets for the affair may be obtained from members of the arrangement committee, from Miss Bessie Harrison, or at club headquarters, Frederick street. Only 300 can be accomodated, Eichner explained.

Eichner indicated last night that Galen L. Tait, state Republican chairman, of Baltimore has also been invited to attend the dinner, but it is not yet certain of he can be here.

SHE'S USED TO THIS—Mrs. Mary C. Man Is Injured While Alighting From Train Here

Six Persons Are Treated in Local Hospitals after Accidents

William J. Clair, 26, 112 Frederick street, was in a "good" condition last evening in Memorial hospital where he was admitted yesterday for treatment of a possible fracture of the skull and a puncture wound of the chin suffered when he fell while alighting from a B. and O. freight train at the Frederick street crossing.

Police said Clair, employed at the Coney Island Lunch Room, Liberty street, was picked up beside the crossing where he missed his footing as he was alighting from the train about 9:30 a. m.

Railroaders working near the scene of the accident said Clair, in getting off the train, apparently fell over a light switch, tripped on a grate and struck his head against the blacktop on the corner of the crossing.

Treated yesterday morning in Memorial hospital were Stanley Wilfong, 32, 18 Thomas street, an employe of the George F. Hazelwood Company, who mashed his right index finger while working at the Celanese plant, and Mrs. Anna Webster, 31, Route 3, Keyser, W. Raid of Rangers on Cumberland Is Reviewed by West Virginian

V. P. Alkire Gives News Reporter Interesting Information on History Made by Capt. Jesse McNeill and His Troops

By JAMES B. CRAIG

General Crook's autobiography, an unsuspected document recently discovered by a sergeant among the general's personal papers in the Army War college archives, has caused a quickening of interest on the part of some of the older residents of nearby West Virginia who are recalling with relish that Crook was one of two Yankee generals removed from their beds in Cumberland the morning of February 21, 1865, and carried off by Capt. Jesse McNeill and his hard riding Rangers.

"Did he mention that in his book?" white-haired V. F. Alkire, a former Mineral county sheriff, inquired slyly with just the suggestion of a twinkle in his eye one recent Sunday morning after he had invited the writer into his comfortable home, the old Taylor Homestead, near Romney.

It was a pleasant spring Sunday. Outside, there was a faint perfume of apple blossoms from the trees on the big hill back of the Alkire home. Inside, Alkire pulled his rocker up to the fire and indicated there was nothing he enjoyed more than reminiscing about the late unpleasantness between the states. And anyway, the McNeill's were relatives of his.

"It was really old Capt. John McNeill's idea in the first place," Alkire said. "He had cherished the

Local Man Learns Of Sister's Death In Kavalla, Greece

In a letter received Thursday from relatives in Greece, Chris Parsoudis, 414 Lehigh street, learned of the death of his sister, Mrs. Mary Zaharia, 47, wife of Anastasis Zaharia, in Kavalla, Greece, January 7. She had been ill since December 15.

Besides her husband and her brother here, she is survived by one daughter, Mary, 16.

The communication also disclosed that the Zaharia family still has received none of the fifteen packages sent to them and several other relatives in Kavalla by the Parsoudis family last November 14.

From this, and other letters received recently, the Parsoudis family know that their relatives are eagerly awaiting the packages which contain food and clothing which they need so badly.

The packages also contain seeds gathered from the Parsoudis garden and from the flower and vegetable gardens of friends.

All the letters, Parsoudis said, report that the people of Kavalla are on a starvation diet and that they manage to keep alive only through UNRRA aid. The five pounds of flour that UNRRA gives each month allows a little bread each day, Parsoudis said.

The letters also disclose the existence of a vicious black market. "If we had money," they write," we could buy anything we want in the Black Market, but money is scarce." Three pounds of flour costs seventy-five cents in American money, Parsoudis was told.

Mrs. Mary C. Johnson, Dormitory Matron at "Y" since 1912, Resigns

By MARY LOUISE BUZZELL

Although she retired officially April 1 after thirty-three years as YMCA dormitory matron here, Mrs. Mary C. Johnson, 11 Frederick street, had to be called from her duties on the third floor at Central YMCA to be interviewed yesterday afternoon.

Tiny, white-haired Mrs. Johnson, who observed her seventieth birthday the day she handed in her resignation, explained that the "Y" has become a second home to her and that she doesn't want to stop working there altogether.

Began Work In 1912

"It was September 12, 1912, during Homecoming week in Cumberland, when I went to work for the 'Y'," Mrs. Johnson said. "It was on a Wednesday, I believe. I had been helping out a neighbor, Mrs. Annie Huffman, who was doing part-time cleaning work at the building, and she got sick, so I took over her work."

At that time, Mrs. Johnson worked as dormitory maid and helped out in the dining room and kitchen. She recalls that her duties included dusting and cleaning a schoolroom which was used for night classes in typing and shorthand, one of the pioneer classes of that type in Cumberland.

In the old YMCA building there were about twelve to fifteen dormitory rooms, and Mrs. Johnson "did them up" every day. When the present YMCA was opened in 1925, she said, William H. Lewis, Frostburg, who was then YMCA secretary, offered her the pick of the rooms she would have to take care of.

"I wanted to have some privacy, so I took the third floor," Mrs. Johnson said.

Joseph Pratt Met Fiance while Home on Convalescent Furlough

A local World War II Veteran, who lost his sight when German Artillery shattered a brick house in which he was taking shelter, will marry a girl that he has never seen, next month in St. Mary's Catholic church rectory here.

Joseph William Pratt, 251 Williams street, and Miss Della V. Busch, 412 Park street, who met while Bill was here on a convalescent furlough last July have decided that finding a place to live after they are married is the biggest problem they will have to face for sometime.

Pratt, serving with the 654th Tank Destroyer Battalion, went into action shortly after D-day and fought on almost every battle front on the European continent including the Battle of the Bulge. He was wounded March 28, 1945, after his outfit joined the Ninth army on the eastern side of the Rhine. A corporal and an anti-tank gunner, he recalls that he was taking a rest in a brick house when German artillery, opened fire and shattered one of the walls. The brick struck him full in the face and destroyed the sight in both eyes. Two of his buddies, who were with him at the time, suffered slight wounds.

The wounded veteran was returned April 17, 1945, and sent to Dibble General hospital, California. It was while he was on furlough here from this hospital that he met Miss Busch. According to the bride-elect, she was visiting Mrs. J. S. Minke, who is her Sunday School teacher and Pratt's aunt, one evening while he was there. After Pratt returned to a rehabilitation camp, "we just kept on writing," Miss Busch said," and when he got his discharge last November and returned home we began going together.

A bit surprised at the fact her coming marriage was creating any excitement, she couldn't see anything unusual about it. "Plenty of people get married" was her answer to the whole thing.

Miss Busch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. C. Busch, Plumville, Pa., is employed in the finished fabric warehouse department of the Celanese Corporation of America. Pratt, who was employed at the Celanese before entering service in 1941, is waiting for final approval of the Maryland Workshop for the Blind before completing plans to open a confection stand in one of the local hospitals.

The ex-corporal admitted that he has attended the local movies once in a while, but doesn't find them too interesting. "The movies now

Rep. J. Glenn Beall and Jennings Randolph Testify before Committee

Rep. J. Glenn Beall announced yesterday that army engineers recommended to the House Flood Control committee, at a hearing in Washington yesterday that $2,100,000 be provided in the flood control bill for completion of the Savage River Dam. Rep. Beall, who is a member af the committee, also testified yesterday along with Rep. Jennings Randolph, of West Virginit.

Beall said yesterday that he would do his best to see to it that the item is included in a flood bill. He said that as a usual thing the committee acts favorably upon recommendations of engineers and he feels certain the committee will accept the proposal.

Brig. Gen. R. C. Crawford, assistant to the chief engineer, testified before the committee and according to Rep. Beall "very definitely" backed the Savage river project. It was pointed out by the congressman that the dam will bring direct benefits to the 30,000 persons in the Keyser, Luke, Westernport and Piedmont areas and will offer material aid in eliminating Potomac river pollution.

Gen. Crawford told the committee that prospective benefits justify completion now.

The two congressmen also made public a report on the project submitted to the committee by Lt. Gen. R. A. Wheeler, chief of engineers.

In the report to Chairman Whittington (D-Miss) of the Flood Control committee, Wheeler declared completion of the dam, on which work was stopped early in 1942, would have estimated annual benefits of $182,700.

He broke them down this way: Pollution abatement, $45,000; increased power $5,000; improved water supply, $130,000; flood control, $2,700.

"It is probable that the above figures are somewhat low and would be increased by a more thorough canvas of the situation," Wheeler wrote. "It is apparent, however, that the completion of the project is amply justified even on these partial benefits. x x x"

Based On Resurvey

The report was based on a resurvey of benefits and costs made at the request of Beall and Randolph. Engineers previously had said the flood control benefits alone did not justify completion.

"The Savage river dam is a unit in the comprehensive plan for the development of the water resources of the Potomac river basin as presented by the division and district engineers in their recent report on
